VETS CHEER PLAN FOR $900 MORE BONUS

STATE HOUSE, BOSTON

Vets Jam Bonus Hearing

Gardner Auditorium in the State House is filled to capacity with veterans as hearing opens before the legislative ways and means committee on bills favoring additional bonus payments by the State. Speaking here is former Rep. Thomas E. Barry of East Boston, State commander of the Allied War Veterans of World War II. He suggested the committee consider a petition which his organization would file tomorrow. Other speakers included former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly and a disabled Marine, James A. Broyer, of Newburyport.

Vets Cheer $900 Bonus By Lottery

Ignoring requests for a quiet and orderly hearing, a throng of more than 1000 World War II veterans jammed Gardner Auditorium today and cheered wildly as former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly and a disabled Marine veteran of Guadalcanal demanded an increase to $900 in the State bonus. As the hearing opened, Rep. Roy Smith of Holbrook, chairman of the ways and means committee, threatened to clear the auditorium in the event of any demonstration but finally let the audience have its way as the vets applauded Kelly and the disabled Marine, James A. Broyer of Newburyport.

Kelly declared he still favored a state lottery as a means of financing the bonus increase to $900, but was willing to go along with an alternative proposal he submitted to the committee.

Under his plan the one-year 2½ per cent in the state tax on corporations would be continued for 15 years while the two-cent per package tax on cigarets and the 45-cent per gallon levy on liquor would be continued for the same period. The taxes were set last year to finance the existing $100 State bonus.

"According to figures from Tax Comr. Long," Kelly said, "the corporation tax will raise $17,000,000 while the veterans and other taxpayers will have to pay the remaining $30,000,000 to $40,000,000. In other words, the Legislature showed special consideration to corporations, in limiting their additional tax to only one year, and none whatsoever to the taxpayers and veterans."

The ovation accorded Kelly when he finished speaking was nothing to the outburst with which the veterans greeted Broyer when he criticized the committee for voting a $100 bonus to veterans while increasing their own salaries $1000 yearly.

"We don't want the world with a fence around it," he said. "But there are a lot of us who didn't come back, and a lot more of us who will never be the same. I have scars, mental and physical, that I can never forget. I went through hell on earth, and all I or any of the rest of us want from you is a fair shuffle.

"Your Representatives found enough money last year to raise your own salaries and take care of your swindle sheets. Now you've got to take care of us. You waved flags when we went away, and now that we're back you give us $100.

"Those 'welcome home' signs don't mean anything to us. Our real welcome home was from our mothers, our wives and our kids. Just remember that we put over the deal that lets you sit here today.

"I'm in favor of a $900 bonus and I don't see why it can't be financed with a lottery. People are going to gamble and always will. I'd buy a ticket in a state lottery and so probably would you members of the Legislature."

Rep. John Wickes of Dorchester, recorded himself in favor of a $600 bonus bill which he is sponsoring and told the committee to remember the veteran wants more than "a little bit of love."

New Hope Seen For Rail Peace

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Top presidential advisers continued separate conferences with leaders of railroad brotherhoods and carriers today hoping to bring them together "very soon" in direct negotiations.

Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary for President Truman, said however, he did not think joint conferences could be resumed today.

Reconversion Director John W. Snyder and John R. Steelman, presidential labor advisor, are conferring with the disputants individually.

The Engineer and Trainmen brotherhoods seek wage and working rule changes which the carriers so far have rejected.

Snyder, Steelman and Labor Sec. Schwellenbach met today on the soft coal dispute, Ayers said in reply to questions.

"As far as I know they are not talking about seizure," Ayers said.

Principals on both sides have said privately they looked for the government to take over the mines by the middle of the week.

International News Service reported from New York that Thomas J. Harkins, eastern representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said the railroad dispute might be settled before night. "I have just received a very encouraging report," he said.

The truce under which most of 400,000 striking United Mine Workers are again digging coal expires Saturday, while the nation-wide railway strike has been postponed only until 5 p. m., Thursday.

Mr. Truman planned to hurry back to the capital today from Missouri after receiving an honorary degree from William Jewell College.

Water Floods Lynn Building

A water main burst on the seventh floor of the Security Trust Building in Lynn today, causing $40,000 damage to building and equipment.

Tons of water poured out the windows of the seven floors of the building before fire and water departments were summoned.

Mines Seizure Seen Sure

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—A government labor official today predicted government seizure of the soft coal mines as the next step in averting a renewal of the coal strike.

This official, who asked to remain anonymous, said John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators now feel that further efforts to negotiate a contract would be fruitless.

IN HOSPITAL AGAIN—Stricken with a new attack of amyotonia congenita, a lung disease, Vincent "Skippy" Romano, 2, of East Boston, has been returned to Boston City Hospital for the third time in the past six months.

Iran Denies Azerbaijan Battle Rages

LONDON, May 20 (AP)—British dispatches from Tehran today said the Iranian war ministry denied any fighting was taking place in Azerbaijan and Kurdistan, as reported by the Tabriz radio in the Azerbaijan capital.

No orders have been sent from the Iranian capital for government commanders to attack the Azerbaijans, the war ministry said.

The British Broadcasting Corp. also quoted an Iranian government spokesman as declaring it was "unlikely" that fighting was taking place.

The London broadcast added that the Iranian spokesman said the government forces "have strict orders not to start any fighting."

"It may be possible," the broadcast quoted him, "that some over-eager frontier units had fired a few shots at Azerbaijans who were provoking them."

The Tehran radio today made no mention of the reported fighting.

Radio reports earlier from Tabriz, Azerbaijan capital, indicated that civil strife had broken out.

The Tabriz radio said central government troops had attacked Azerbaijan. Reuters quoted the broadcast as saying the attack came from Kurdistan in the region near the southwestern end of Lake Urnia, about 50 miles west of Tabriz, between Kurdistan and Azerbaijan.

Truman Calls Upon Nation To Work

LIBERTY, Mo., May 20 (AP)—President Truman summoned the people of the United States to "work for the peace of the world and the strenghtening of their own country."

"Somebody has to sit in the front row and do the work," he told a William Jewell College audience here today.

Without referring directly to the railroad and coal labor crisis, Mr. Truman asserted workers are needed more than leaders.

"That is true on the farms," he continued. "That is true in the coal mines. That is true on the railroads. That is true in the automobile factories. That is true in the mills and everything else that makes this country great."

"If we are to be a success in anything we must work," the President emphasized.

"Work, work, work," that is what I said to the nationa on V-J Day.

"I wish the country would listen to that admonition today."

The President also declared the United States will pursue the cause of peace with all its might.

The President spoke after he had received an honorary doctor of law degree from William Jewell College.

Senators Back Union Fund Curb

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—A bi-partisan group of Senators pressing for labor disputes legislation agreed today to back a prohibition against sole union control of workers' welfare funds to which employers contribute.

Such a ban has been proposed by Sen. Byrd (D.) of Virginia as an amendment to pending labor legislation, aimed primarily at John L. Lewis' demand for a 7 per cent payroll levy to finance a health and welfare fund for coal miners.

With the Senate entering its second week of debate on labor bills, a dozen Democrats and Republicans met in the office of Sen. Ball (R.) of Minnesota in an effort to work out a program all could support.

Bay State Faces Shortage Of Food Despite Rail Truce

While railroad and union officials were assuring New England of uninterrupted train service, at least until the nationwide strike truce expires Thursday at 5 p. m., grocers predicted today their shelves will be short of perishable foods for at least two weeks.

Whether the strike is averted or not, the shortage of foods shipped into this area will be serious this week and will be much worse next week, according to Malcolm McCabe, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers Ass'n.

"Almost no meat will arrive here this week," he said. "It was not loaded in the Middle West and there is small likelihood that it will be loaded this week while the strike is still threatening. There are some fruits and vegetables on hand, btu they will probably not last beyond the early part of this week."

William Day, head of the transportation division of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, added that, "We are expecting very little in the way of fruits and vegetables, and at this time of the year all our fruits and vegetables come from other parts of the country."

Meanwhile, William E. B. Chase, deputy national head of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, said he would remain in Boston to do liaison work between local union officials and national officers who will be negotiating in Washington.

20-Yr. Jap Sake Thirst Ends

KYOTO, Japan, May 20 (AP)—A 20-year ride on the water wagon was ended last week by 310 Japanese farmers by a sake party which really made history in their village.

Intelligence officers heard of the "large" evening and unearthed the following yarn:

Twenty years ago 310 farmers comprising the village of Kawaidani couldn't produce 45,000 yen to construct a primary school. So ashamed were they they agreed to abstain from sake, the nation's leading liquor, for 20 years.

During the drouth the farmers saved 1,500,000 yen, built their school and used the rest for village improvements. Last week the time was up and the 20-year thirsts were slaked in adequate fashion.

Body of Teacher, 71, Found Floating in Sea

SALEM, May 20—Funeral plans were being made today for Miss Viola Crittenden, 71, retired school teacher found floating in the sea off Cat Island by the Coast Guard, after having been missing from her home since March 28.

Hint Roxbury Boy Slain by Wild Shot

Possibility that the police bullet which killed 18-year-old William Munzert, Jr., of Dunreath st., Roxbury, Friday night, was not aimed at him and that he may have been innocent of the Vine st. library break preceding the shooting was expanded today by disclosure that the slug apparently hit something else before striking him.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary, who performed the autopsy, said the bullet was flattened on one side from crown to base, although it struck none of the youth's bones. It entered the abdomen, ploughing through tissue, severing artery and vein, causing hemorrhage.

Dr. Leary stated:

"The condition of the bullet suggests it ricocheted. It would not be as flattened as I found it merely as the result of striking tissue."

Additional indication that Munzert may have been an innocent victim was seen in other aspects of the case.

The course of the bullet was downward, which was consistent with the ricochet theory.

Wm. Munzert

The boy's parents, both of whom were in such grief last night they required medical attention, disclosed it would not have been unusual for him to have been running at the time he was shot. They said he customarily ran when he did errands, that he liked to jog and invariably did so when coming home late at night.

Patrolman Paul B. Curtis of Dudley st station, who reported he had fired three times after two youths broke into the library and ignored his commands to halt, was working his regular shift today, under orders to make no statement.

Police Comr. Thomas F. Sullivan said, "I'll make no comment until further investigation."

In the meantime, Roxbury police were questioning three youths and a girl who reportedly had information in connection with the shooting.

Previously they learned from Helen McDonald, 15, of Eustis st., Roxbury, that Munzert had left her, after escorting her home from a movie, only a few minutes before the tragedy.

Two other girls added light to the case, having seen part of the incident.

Ruth Larson, 19, and her sister, Emily, 18, both of Vivian st., told police they had been listening to the radio when they heard three shots. Ruth said she looked out the window. "I heard a yell and opened the window. I saw a boy run past our house. Then he stumbled and fell to the ground. The boy ran to him and dragged him several feet to the gutter in front of our house."

Emily Larson remembered the youth was clutching his abdomen.

and asking the officer: "What did you do that for? I wasn't doing anything."

Then she heard him moan: "I want my mother. I was just . . ." The girl did not hear him finish the sentence.

She and her sister said the policeman was holding a flashlight over the boy, trying to get his name and address.

Funeral services for him will be conducted tomorrow with requiem high mass at St. Patrick's Church, Roxbury, at 9 o'clock.

A brother, James, 16, in the Navy, was given emergency leave to return from Bainbridge, Md.

Atty. Angus McLean, a friend of the Munzert family, was scheduled to confer later today with Atty.-Gen. Barnes in an effort to bring about a full-scale investigation of the shooting.

Ladd said that he felt that any person accepting the post should have the complete confidence of the committee and, since his election was not unanimous, he refused to accept the job. He also asked that his name be withdrawn from any future consideration by the committee.

Too Much To Bear

LOS ANGELES, May 20 (AP)—Giving up hope of finding another apartment after receiving an eviction notice, Kenneth Gruse, 22, Marine veteran, started loading his trailer, preparing to go back to his home town, Tulsa, Okla.

He made the last trip back into the house, to get his radio.

Gruse is still here, listening to that radio, wondering who drove off with his car, trailer and his household goods.

Husband Held in Knife Slaying of Wife, 2 Sons

SOUTHBRIDGE, May 20—Brought in to district court here today following hours of grilling by state and local police, Christo G. Sotir, 34-year-old optical worker, today pleaded not guilty to the triple murder of his wife and two sons and was held for the grand jury. The plea was entered through W. W. Buckley, attorney for Sotir, after reading of the complaint had been waived. After his arraignment Sotir was removed to Worcester County jail.

Police charge Sotir, in a jealous rage, stabbed his wife, Lena, 22, and son, Jack, 4 years, with a butcher knife, and beat and choked to death his 40-day-old infant son. Sotir was found unconscious in the gutter in front of his East Main st. home. Officials said he had leaped from the second-floor porch in a remorseful attempt at suicide.

Medical Examiner Dr. Stewart M. Gibson said Mrs. Sotir died from stab wounds of the face and chest, and the boy, Jack, from stab wounds in the abdomen.

After treatment at Harrington Memorial Hospital for self-inflicted stab wounds Sotir was taken to police headquarters where he confessed to the crime, according to Police Chief Ulric Brault.

"I lost my head" the chief quoted him as saying.

Sotir admitted he had accused his wife of being too friendly with another man, known to him only as "Jimmy." He said he wanted to have the baby named after him but his wife wanted to name the child Jimmy. Over this, and his accusation they quarreled.

Sotir had left his wife recently and became reconciled with her two weeks ago when he returned home for some clothing. Yesterday afternoon they resumed their quarrel over "Jimmy."

Funeral services for the three victims will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Albanian Church here. Rev. Lambi Michael, an uncle of Sotir, will conduct the services.

CLEVELAND, May 20 (INS)—Msgr. Maurice F. Griffin, a Catholic Church pastor in Cleveland, asked parishioners today not to use rice in showering bridal couples.

He told his congregation he not only thoroughly "disapproved of this silly and pagan custom," but that it was "shameful" to waste rice.

Gromyko Again To Boycott UN

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko indicated today he would boycott Wednesday's session of the United Nations Security Council which has been called to take up again the controversial Iranian question.

This development came as the Council approached another deadline in the Iranian case, still without any assurances from either Russia or Iran that all Soviet troops had been withdrawn from Iranian soil.

Mexico's Next Leader Has 30-Point Program

By CARL GREENBERG

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, May 20—Miguel Aleman, institutional revolutionary party (P. R. I.) candidate for president of Mexico, whose election next July 7 is accepted as a foregone conclusion even by supporters of the opposition, has presented the people of his country with a 30-point program of government. The document is not the usual type of campaign propaganda, but sets out in detail the plans Senor Aleman intends to act upon when elected. And it is given vital implementation by a procedure novel in campaigns.

It was evidenced when Senor Aleman conducted public round table here on merchant marine problems.

At this session leaders of labor, commerce and shipping, and others concerned with maritime affairs, were given an opportunity to tell him what steps should be taken by his administration in connection with their problems.

This round table was the last of several held in various sections of Mexico. Some time before the election the campaign committee will publish all the statements made, in a booklet that will also contain Senor Aleman's response to the pleas.

Senor Aleman, who managed the campaign of President Manuel Avila Camacho, will carry forward the work done by the incumbent to build Mexico into a more virile and prosperous nation.

Some idea of the tremendous enthusiasm Senor Aleman's candidacy has generated may be obtained by a tour of back roads in rural areas where even trees have [illegible] painted on their trunks you've [illegible] wall is covered with in[illegible] signifying support.

Arrests of 4 Foil Hub Holdups

Four New Bedford youths, ranging from 16 to 20, were held here today after they told police their capture was all that halted their plans to stage a series of Boston holdups.

Two of the quartet were captured in an automobile chase on Old Colony blvd., South Boston, and the other two were seized later in a South Boston housing project where they were visiting.

The four came to Boston in a car stolen Saturday in New Bedford and had two revolvers and a rifle in their machine.

Election of Hurst Ends News Driver Union Strife

James V. Hurst, for 20 years an employe of the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, today was elected president of Local 25, International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, AFL, ending a 13-year reign of John M. Sullivan. The vote was 1220 to 926.

The election, the first since 1941, resulted in the election of John Quinn as vice-president and Maurice DeAmbrosia as a business agent.

Although elections are scheduled every three years, officers had remained at their posts for the last five years, maintaining they had been chosen for the duration of the war.

Election of Hurst settled internal strife that flared into a nine-day "holiday" strike in November, 1944, when workers sought unsuccessfully to force an election. Fifteen Boston truck drivers who led the walkout were disciplined as a result of the trouble. The strike ended when Gov. Tobin appealed to 4500 drivers to return to their jobs.

Hurst is married and lives in East Fourth st., South Boston. He has five children, the eldest a daughter recently discharged honorably from the WAVES. He has been a member of the union for 28 years.

Arguments Still Tie Up Trawlers

Eight Boston fishing trawlers, iced up and ready to sail, remained idle at the Fish Pier today as boat owners and union fishermen representatives met with a labor conciliator to thrash out remaining minor points in their new contract.

The tieup continued into its 143d day when union fishermen refused to take out trawlers until all points at issue had been settled.

Both boat owners and union representatives were hopeful the half-dozen points could be settled today.

After agreement has been reached they must be presented to both the union membership and the boat owners for approval before any of the trawlers will be sent out.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THIS COUNTRY has known many minority political parties, some of which were of considerable importance.

In recent years, the Socialist Party, the Social Labor Party, the Communist Party, the Prohibition Party have each appealed to particular individuals who will not vote Republican or Democratic. They attract a scattering vote but rarely win an election anywhere.

P. A. C. is different. It introduces a wholly European concept, the bloc.

It is a combination of differing parties which unite for the object of winning an election.

The victory goes not to a majority but to a combination of minorities.

The people cannot vote yes or no on an issue, as the issues are numerous and complex and are presented differently by each of the groups that combine on nothing-in-particular except that only by such combination can an election be won. It is selling everything for a vote.

In recent years, Senator Bilbo, Congressman Rankin, Earl Browder and Sidney Hillman have been associated in precisely such a combination and they may discover themselves together in the same potpourri in the 1948, if not the 1946, election.

SIDNEY HILLMAN, who is the architect of this bloc, is an astute, scheming political manager who has been able to contribute two novelties to American political processes:

1—He has been able to establish a catch-all political unit, ranging in ideas and attitude from the Communist Party to the Southern Democrats;

2—He has been able to finance a political campaign by taxing organized labor instead of by voluntary contributions from all kinds of citizens.

In a State like New York, where the Democrats cannot win a state election in ordinary circumstances, the PAC auxiliary, the American Labor Party, contributes enough votes and money to be very helpful.

It is true that Thomas E. Dewey defeated this combination four years ago and may do it again, but in Congressional elections the combination often succeeds.

In fact, a fracas over it is actually developing in the Republican Party, in which a member of the House of Representatives, Joe Baldwin, has won a position practically independent of his party through American Labor Party support.

P. A. C. DOES NOT actually appear on the ballot. It makes deals usually with Democrats and sometimes with Republicans. It selects individuals for support or opposition.

Then it pours huge sums of money into a district, enters upon an "educational" campaign of slogans, literature, speakers, with a long list of artists, movie stars, poets, sculptors and such bric-a-brac to create an atmosphere of "non-partisan public opinion."

The candidate is debauched. His public career as well as his private life becomes the property of the P. A. C. In private, the candidate curses the day, he, an American, got hooked up with Communists, radio script writers and nutty economists.

In public, he tries to sound like Henry Wallace on parade.

It is an astonishingly sleek scheme and it has worked because most Americans vote traditionally. No old-time Democrat can be convinced that the leaders of his party are tied up with a bunch of Communists.

He is only now becoming aware of what has for many years been a provable fact, namely, that he is like the sure-thing wife who stays at home while the husband is out sporting with a trollop. He is apparently the last to be told.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to hold an American election in the American way as long as the politicians of either party are willing to buy elections by selling their souls.

And, in practice, it makes Hillman the strongest politician in this country, because he can help a man over the rough spots in an uncertain political career.

In 1946, Hillman will have $6,000,000 to spend, which is an awful lot of money for a Congressional campaign, more than the Republicans or Democrats will have.

But he will have more than money, he will have many of the most active propaganda agencies of government.

He will have the radio. He will have a stable of extremely clever writers.

Unless Americans learn to recognize P. A. C. for what it is and to vote against every candidate that has its indorsement, he might even win.

OPA to Jump New Car Prices Within 10 Days

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Prices of new cars, already boosted because of higher wages, are going up again—this time an average of 4 to 5 per cent to offset costlier steel and parts. Disclosing this today, a high OPA official told a reporter privately the hike probably will go into effect within 10 days. He said OPA hopes this will be the last of the auto price increases required under the administration's liberalized wage-price policy.

Under it, retail prices for most cars were boosted from $1 to $60 in March and April to compensate for wage increases.

Figuring an average of 5 per cent, the new increase will add $60 to the price of a $1200 car. However, the hike for autos in this price range may be less than the average.

In any case, the entire increase will be passed on to the public. OPA has said dealers' profit margins will not be trimmed any more.

One of the principal factors behind the new increase is the average boost of $5 a ton for steel allowed last February when the industry increased wages 18½ cents hourly to settle the steel strike. The auto industry also is paying higher prices for other materials.

The general climb above 1942 prices has occurred despite a cut of 4¼ per cent in the prewar profit margins of all car dealers.

Murder Victim's Wife Collapses

Mrs. Helen Petrusevicz, Speedwell st., Dorchester, collapsed today in a Suffolk Superior Court anteroom as she waited to testify in the trial of Raphael Skopp, 35, scar-faced ex-convict, who is charged with the murder of her husband, Bronislaw Petrusevicz, during a holdup Dec. 30, 1944, at the Federal Wine Co.

Petrusevicz, father of four children, was shot when he failed to hand over receipts and Thomas C. Keller, a clerk, narrowly escaped a similar fate by ducking bullets.

The case is being heard by Judge Sullivan and a jury, with Atty. Richard McCabe of Cambridge assigned as defense counsel.

The jury was chosen after the defense had used up 24 of its 28 challenges and the prosecution had challenged nine.

One of these eliminated was Frederick Reiser, Ruggles st., Roxbury, who told the court:

"My brother was a Boston police officer who was killed by a gunman a number of years ago."

GARROTTED — Waitress Jennie Capinsky, 29, of the West End, points to rope bruises on her face suffered when a 15-year-old Andover boy attempted to garrot her during a robbery try near the State House. She fought him off and a passer-by caught the boy after a short chase.

Auto Workers Oppose Car Price Increases

DETROIT, May 20 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers today filed a formal protest with the OPA against increased automobile prices.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO president, asked OPA Administrator Paul Porter to designate a board of review to hear union claims that increased auto prices are not made necessary by recent wage increases, and are in violation of the President's order on wage-price policy.

The union complaint charged that recent price increases would add $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year to the cost of cars to consumers, in addition to the $500,000,000 added to consumer cost earlier this year.

Dad Sees 6-Ft. Baby

Mr. G. Ignored in Glory

By STANLEY CHIPMAN

Shorty, a giraffe with a noggin 12 feet above foot level, had attained a par with all the fathers in the human race since fatherhood began; he was being ignored in the moments of his pride.

His mate, Edie, an asset of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, presented him with an offspring at 11:20 last night, the third giraffe born in the Big Show. It's a boy.

The child was six feet tall and very rubbery-legged. It still is. One of the first acts of circus officials (many of them fathers who were barred from contact with their babies because fathers are known to be horribly germ-laden), was to keep Shorty away from him.

They had the kindness to let him look at it but through wire caging. It wasn't enough. Shorty could have used the entire Boston Garden, he was pacing so. He ignored his bran. He ignored his greens. He was a melancholy giraffe and he got nowhere by trying to thrust that huge nose through the wire.

They merely let him look, although they did have the decency not to put glass between him and his baby.

Edie was arching her neck proudly and acting as though she had accomplished the matter all by herself. She relished her victuals. She fed her child. She had no interest at all in Shorty. She had been a mother before. She nuzzled her babe. Nuts to Shorty, drawing himself near to a nervous breakdown because, as he figured it, Edie should have become a mother weeks ago.

Perhaps Edie's smugness was due to the fact she knew what the circus veterinarian couldn't establish for hours. He ventured that the little giraffe might be a girl. It was a boy, a fact which he announced formally at 10 this morning, more that 10 hours after birth.

This was in circus tradition. The circus' first born-in-captivity giraffe was promptly named Sally Harris. They had to change it to Andy.

The second one was named Henry while it was still trying to get on its feet. They shifted to Henrietta after a few hours.

This one is named Boston. Circus executives had hedged for hours, getting ready to come up with "Bostonia."

Nobody asked Shorty what to name it. Shorty wasn't even given a vest out of which to pull cigars.

Hubby Disputes Divorce Charges

Granted the privilege of telling his side of the story in Salem Probate Court, Edward P. Maggiacomo of Beverly today contradicted details of the testimony of alleged cruelties on which his wife, Mrs. Helen E. Maggiocomo, based her petition for divorce.

In asking to be heard by the court, Maggiacomo said he did not intend to contest the divorce, but that he did not "want to be made out a criminal."

Mrs. Maggiacomo testified he had beaten her in a vacant lot while she was expectant. She also told the court her husabnd hit her on the chin in a restaurant and on another occasion threw a knife at her.

Maggiacomo denied she was pregnant at the time of the vacant lot episode. He told the court the "restaurant" which his wife referred to was a bar into which he had forbidden her to go. He denied he threw a knife at her and told the court he had thrown it into the floor.

The case was taken under advisement.

2 Held in Crash Of Car Into Cafe

NEWBURYPORT, May 17—Two sailors were held in $100 each in district court today, three others were hospitalized at the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard, and four persons were at the Anna Jacques Hospital here as the result of a car crashing through a Salisbury beach cafe last night.

The auto went through the wall of Mazie's restaurant and smashed to a halt against the bar 15 feet away

Five sailors were in the car. One, Bert S. Bates, 22, Jackson, O., pleaded guilty before Judge Carens to operating without a license, but not guilty to driving so as to endanger.

The car owner, Daniel H. Krusenklaus, 22, Louisville, Ky., pleaded not guilty to allowing an improper person to operate the automobile.

Both were taken into custody by Portsmouth naval authorities. The case was continued to May 27.

Ladd Refuses Malden School Post

Harland A. Ladd, Maine deputy commissioner of education, who was elected superintendent of Malden schools by a 3-to-2 vote of the Malden school committee last Saturday, today declined the $7000-a-year position.

In a telegram from Augusta, Me., Ladd said that he felt that any person accepting the post should have the complete confidence of the committee and, since his election was not unanimous, he refused to accept the job. He also asked that his name be withdrawn from any future consideration by the committee.

Unitarian Hub Conference Weighs Atom Age Problems

The responsibility of the Liberal Church in the atomic age, was the theme for discussion during the four days of the 121st annual meeting of the American Unitarian Ass'n opening today, with delegates from all parts of the United States joining with representatives of the church in India, Canada, France and Czechoslovakia

The conferences opened with a morning prayer offered by the Rev. Robert C. Withington at King's Chapel, followed by the first of a series of meetings to be held by the Unitarian Historical Society.

The problems of democracy, international relations and the control of atomic energy are on the agenda of panel groups to meet during the next four days at the First Church of Boston on Marlboro st., Back Bay.

The business committee of the association presented the full conference with a resolution calling for prompt adoption of domestic control of atomic energy by a civil governmental authority as a safeguard to the preservation of democracy.

Lesser of 2 Evils

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., May 20 (AP)—Passers-by gathered in a knot on a downtown corner to gape—from a respectful distance—at a three-foot bull snake sunning itself on the running board of a parked car.

Willie Salas broke up the show before anyone learned how the reptile got there. He pocketed the snake and strolled away, remarking:

"I've got mice in my cellar."

1000 More Jews Enter Palestine

HAIFA, May 20 (AP)—More than 1000 homeless European Jews, who arrived yesterday on two motorships they chartered in Italy for an unauthorized dash to Palestine, were assigned to transit camps in the Haifa area today as fast as authorities could complete formalities to legalize their entry to the promised land.

The vessels, the Fede and Fenice, arrived under escort of the British destroyer Charity six weeks after the refugees embarked. During the last two days of the voyage the Fede—with 567 passengers—was towed by the Fenice.

Most of the Jews came from Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Baltic countries and many bore tattooed numbers on their forearms, indicating they had been in Nazi concentration camps.

War Hero Flies To See Truman

NASHPORT, O., May 20 (AP)—Melvin Mayfield, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, left by plane for Washington today to solicit President Truman's help in a fight against a $10,000,000 flood control dam project. His farm will be flooded if the Licking river dam is built.

Mayfield, to see the President Wednesday, said:

"I'm not so good at using $10 words, but I do know this whole thing is wrong, very wrong, and the Army engineers are proving more trouble than those little sons of heaven we were fighting over on Luzon.

"I'm proud of my medal but it won't even buy you a cup of coffee. I'm worried about my future and where I'm going to find a new farm."

Bonus

Dorchester, a veteran, favored financing the bonus increase by a long-term bond issue.

Rep. Colin Cameron of Amesbury also spoke in favor of a state lottery to finance the bonus increase.

Another proponent of the lottery was Robert Hazen, commander of a Natick VFW post, who pointed out that the voters had instructed the Senate by a referendum of 805,000 to 325,000 in 1940 to favor a lottery, adding:

"The majority want a state lottery, and, unless the will of the majority is to prevail, you legislators and every other elective official might as well resign. If the majority is not to prevail, then we veterans will have fought in vain."

Vigorous opposition to a state lottery was expressed yesterday by Abp. Cushing, who declared at the annual memorial mass of Suffolk County Council, American Legion, that a lottery with "inevitable consequences of official graft and popular waste" would hasten moral decay.

Rep. Robert P. Murphy of Malden proposed a graduated scale for a bonus to recognize the length and type of service of the individual veteran.

A. F. Bigelow, chairman of the State Council of the AMVETS, proposed adoption of the "Nebraska plan," which had operated successfully for 25 years since World War I.

"Under this plan," he said, "the State sets aside a trust fund with the income to be devoted to needy veterans and their families. It is ready cash for a rainy day and will cure our bonus headaches. An increase in the present bonus means raising $90,000,000 for nothing but a cash handout!"

Former Rep. Thomas E. Barry of East Boston, veteran of both wars and state commander of the World War II Allied Veterans, favored increased state income taxes on individuals and corporations.

Barry declared the individual tax on incomes was 1½ per cent compared to as high as 15 per cent in some states and the corporation tax was 2½ per cent, increased to 5 per cent for one year, while in other states it runs 8 to 10 per cent.

His increase proposals, which he said were approved by Atty.-Gen. Clarence A. Barnes, would raise $600,000,000, enough to finance the bonus, State tax and "everything else."

Veterans from all sections of the State began to file into the auditorium long before hearing time, filling the 800 available seats and lining up against the walls and in the aisles to pack the place to capacity as Rep. Smith opened the session.

The hearing resumed at 2 p. m. with Atty. Paul Carbone of East Boston declaring the money to pay for an increased bonus could be raised even if it meant deficit financing.

"The late Lord Keynes, British economist, suggested the world 'spend its way back to prosperity,'" he said. "He said we should put more high velocity money into the hands of the unemployed and less low velocity money into the hands of the rich, who would only save it."

Rep. Edward A. Hutchinson, Jr., of Boston said he favored an increase of $10 for veterans who served in this country and $200 for those who went overseas and warned the veterans against being "fooled" by politicians. He suggested financing the increase by a tax on the interest from real estate mortgages.

Patrick J. Sullivan of Dorchester, Boston marketman, said he favored Kelly's proposal for a $900 bonus financed by a state lottery, while Thomas I. Coughlin, YD veteran and legislative agent for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, also favored the Kelly measure.

M'Cormack Pledges Raise In Pay to Hospitalized Vets

Action will be taken to correct current government policy of keeping hospitalized war heroes on remunerations of as little as 28 cents a day in government funds, Cong. John W. McCormack promised today.

Gen. Omar Bradley, head of the Veterans Administration, has agreed that the present law wreaks injustices, and told Rep. McCormack that legal changes already are being drafted by the Veterans Administration.

Cong. McCormack, who took up the cudgels for the veterans after learning of their plight in an editorial in the Record-American, has volunteered to sponsor the law in Congress.

Gen. Bradley, in reply to the House majority leader's call for action, wrote him, "I am keenly interested in this problem," and said the present low stipend "creates hardships and a morale problem in certain cases, and it may be that steps can be taken to alleviate the situation.

"Accordingly, a comprehensive study of all phases of this problem has been in progress in the Veterans' Administration with a view toward consideration of proposed legislation to liberalize the present law, and I hope to be able to make certain recommendations on the subject to the Congress in the near future," Bradley said.

B17s and B29s Bomb Sub Pens

WIESBADEN, Germany, May 20 (AP)—America's and Britain's heaviest bombers are striking at the $50,000,000 submarine pens near Breman with "earth shock" bombs in the largest experimental air bombardment launched in Europe since the war, it was officially disclosed today.

Four-engined B-29's, which never flew in combat over Germany, together with B-17 Flying Fortresses and British Lancasters, are shuttling between Bremen and the RAF central bomber establishment at Marham, England, for the continuing tests.

British-developed bombs up to 22,000 pounds and American 4500-pound "rocket-assisted" armor-piercing bombs are used.

Coast Guard Seeks Crippled Schooner

The Coast Guard tender Woodbine was plowing through heavy fog off Newburyport today, seeking the New Bedford fishing schooner Skilligalee, which called for aid last night after her engines became disabled.

Coast Guard officials planned to send a plane from the Salem base to aid in the search when the weather cleared. Meanwhile the tender Spar was expected at New Bedford today with the dragger Ivanhoe in tow. The Ivanhoe's nets had fouled the propeller.

Prize Ponies Inspire Rush of Entries to Hub Pet Show

Youngsters of Boston seem to have at least one of almost every species in the animal kingdom that it's possible to tame.

That's the impression, anyhow, from the deluge and variety of entries being received in the Boston Park Department's annual pet show, scheduled for June 1 on Boston Common, at which 15 lively and handsome Badman's Territory ponies will be given away ABSOLUTELY FREE as extra prizes.

The more entries the merrier, however—and the more pets on hand, the more fun for the boys and girls, not to mention adults, attending the big show.

Any Boston boy or girl up to 16 years of age may enter his or her pet and try for one of the prize ponies being given away by RKO Radio Pictures in connection with the New England premiere of "Badman's Territory," the new and fast-moving film of the Oklahoma Panhandle.

This exciting frontier romance and crusade against lawlessness will open at the RKO Boston and 75 other theaters in New England on May 30, co-starring Randolph Scott, Ann Richards and George (Gabby) Hayes. It's one of the year's most stirring films and a MUST for lovers of action.

In each of the following classes at the pet show, ponies will be awarded the first and second-place winners: Pedigree dogs, puppies, mongrels, kittens, cats, feathered friends and novelties. One pony will be awarded to the winner in the trained dog class.

It is simplicity itself, boys and girls, to enter your pet in the June 1 show on Boston Common and try for the ponies—which are in addition to the usual gold and silver medals. All you need do is put your name, age, address and the type of pet you are entering, on the back of a postcard.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My brother was reported killed in action in May, 1944. If he should return, would he have to repay the insurance that my mother and sister-in-law have been receiving? T. Y., Stockbridge, Mass.

A—Payment of National Service Life Insurance claims are affected only after the required proof of death is submited to the Veterans Administration. However, in some cases where the War Department has declared the insured officially dead, the serviceman has turned up, especially in the cases of repatriated Japanese prisoners. In these instances the Veterans Administration has had to handle each case on its own merits. Due consideration is afforded the beneficiary where repayments would tend to create a hardship.

Q—Does a soldier overseas have to re-enlist for a certain period of time in order to have his family with him? L. E. W., North Hatfield, Mass.

A—A soldier stationed overseas who desires to have his family join him should make aplication to his theater comander and the priority of his request would first be determined by the length of time he is willing to remain overseas. Length of time served is also considered when the individual is one of a group stating the same time preference. In any case, he wil he required to remain overseas for at last an additional year.

Q—Is time spent in the Enlisted Reserve Corps credited on the service record or is it only included in the longevity pay record? G. D., Holyoke.

A—Time spent in Enlisted Reserve Corps is not credited in the service records. It is only included in the longevity record to be used for the purpose of computing pay.

Q—How old must a veteran of World War I be before he can claim a pension? R. B. Holyoke.

A—Pensions are not paid on the basis of age but rather on the basis of service and disability. It is suggested that you contact the nearest Veterans Administration ofice for advice in the matter.

Q—Is it possible for a veteran to request a return of premium payments made on his National Life Insurance while hospitalized seven months in a military hospital—F. L., Waltham.

A—Yes, he may file claim with the Veterans' Administration for return of premium payments made when totally disabled for six or mo. continuous months.

Arabs, Jews Asked For Formal Views

JERUSALEM, May 20 (AP)—The governments of Britain and the United States asked Arabs and Jews of Palestine today to express their views formally on the British-American inquiry commission's report which recommended immediate admission of 100,000 Jews to Palestine.

The American consulate said the State Department cabled instructions to ask the Jewish Agency and the Arab Higher Committee to give their views by June 20.

English Twins Wed GI Vets In Baltimore Ceremony

BALTIMORE, May 20 (AP)—In a double wedding ceremony, at a hotel, June and Doreen Robbins, 20-year-old English blonde twins, were married last night to their GI sweethearts.

June married Earl Kahn of Baltimore and her twin sister wed Jack Silver of Los Angeles.

The twins had flown here from England to marry the veterans whom they met while singing for American troops at Nottingham.

Silver came from Los Angeles so the twins could be married at the same time.

June and Doreen wore identical white satin gowns and carried identical bouquets of red roses.

The Silvers left today for Los Angeles, where they will live. The Kahns went to Atlantic City and New York for a honeymoon, after which they will live in Baltimore.

A third Robbins sister, Irene, recently married Irvin Fishman, ex-GI from New York.

"Was I WRONG, back in 1946!"

1. "Believe me, time sure slips by fast! Here it is nine years since World War II. Those were the years when I really put in overtime at the cotton mill. One thing was good about it—I made plenty of extra money.

2. "I saved a lot of it, too! We expected to do a real job fixing up our home, after the war; even worked out the plans. Yes, we didn't spend much, then. Many things we needed were scarce, anyway, or else cost too much.

3. "We grabbed that big chance and saved up a real nest egg. We bought War Bonds regularly and we salted more money away in the bank. We took out the additional life insurance we needed. Saving got to be fun!

4. "When the war was over, we were all set. Then they started making more things for the home folks. Some people went crazy, buying. But we kept our heads and took it easy—for awhile. Then somehow, we plunged, too!

5. "I sure wish we'd hung onto more of our savings. We could have bought what we needed when things got plentiful—and still have a backlog. A lot of those War Bonds would be coming due next year! Was I WRONG, back in 1946!"

Life Insurance Companies in America

and their agents

. . . to cooperate with our Government in preserving the financial health of the nation

BUT IT IS STILL 1946. If we use our savings wisely now, we can help to avoid inflationary price increases . . . and at the same time maintain backlogs for the kind of future we all desire. If we spend our money carelessly now, we may look back some day with regret.

During the war, millions of Americans saved to protect their families, to educate their children, to start a business of their own, to own their own home, to retire. Today they are still following the advice of our Government, buying only what they really need until civilian goods are plentiful; buying and holding on to their Government Bonds and life insurance, and maintaining their savings accounts. Are you one of them?

America's life insurance companies are sponsoring this program of information as a public service to the 71,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American citizen.

THE REAL AIM OF THE OPA

THE REAL REASON the Office of Price Administration is so desperately fighting any restraint by Congress on its admittedly excessive powers is that the agency aspires to be—and is conspiring to become—a PERMANENT agency of the Federal Government wielding the NEVER-ENDING POWER OF PRICE CONTROL.

If it were true, as spokesmen for the agency pretend, that it will willingly and gladly relinquish its powers as soon as the emergency induced by war is ended, there would be no resistance to the moderate and reasonable restraints which have been proposed in Congress.

In the main, the proposals in Congress have as their objective tapering off the functions and activities of price control as the emergency diminishes, with definite abandonment of price control provided for as soon as the emergency no longer exists.

If the Office of Price Administration is not aspiring and conspiring to exist BEYOND the period of emergency—in fact, to exist permanently and in full and unrestrained possession of all its vast powers—WHY DOES IT SO DESPERATELY OPPOSE AN ORDERLY AND SPECIFIC PROGRAM BY CONGRESS TO BRING ITS AUTHORITY TO AN END WHEN ALL NEED AND EXCUSE FOR THE EXERCISE OF THAT AUTHORITY IS GONE?

NOT ALL spokesmen for the Office of Price Administration resort to pretense in this matter, at least not in all circumstances.

There has been, for instance, a report to one of the committees of Congress concerning the frank and pertinent remarks of a certain Mrs. Ella Roller, identified as an employe of the Information Department of the Office of Price Administration.

"It is going to be necessary to SCARE THE PANTS OFF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE," Mrs. Roller is quoted in this report, "to convince them of the need of PERMANENT price control.

"Of course, the Office of Price Administration, set up as a wartime emergency measure, has no legal status now, but if the Office of Price Administration can be PROPAGANDIZED into two more years of life, it can be sold to the American people as a PERMANENT THING under a Constitutional amendment."

In further confirmation of this trend of thought and deliberate intention within the structure of the Office of Price Administration is a letter recently published in the New York Times over the signature of John Khanlian, assistant regional price board executive, Region Two, Office of Price Administration.

Written in protest against current suggestions for the termination of price control, this letter significantly says:

"Like many other examples of social progress, the TIME for price control has ARRIVED, and no arguments can dispel that towering economic reality.

"Our most profitable course is so to design price control that, like all other accepted social controls, it will yield greater freedom because of our having it."

THE CURRENT DEBATE in Congress is more than a discussion of what powers the Office of Price Administration should have and when those powers should expire.

It is the beginning of the battle in Congress, and in behalf of the American people, to determine whether a temporary agency of price control created to function in an emergency shall become a permanent agency of government—an event not originally intended by Congress, and NEVER approved or desired by the American people.

The Office of Price Administration is not fighting for a mere extension of its life.

It is fighting for PERPETUATION of its life and of its powers.

And this objective cannot be achieved without destruction of the traditional and historic American system of competitive free enterprise.

On the dreary moorland now
In the storm I wander lonely,
Longing-love atone knows how
For your kiss on lips and brow
Longing for you only;
Life can bring me naught but pain,
Till among the purple heather,
Hand in hand we walk again,
You and I together.

—GEORGE ARNOLD.

THE QUESTION of wiping out polygamy came up for discussion in a meeting of the United Nations subcommittee on the status of women. Mme. Lefauchieux of France objected to any action of this nature being taken by the United Nations as polygamy was "a custom" in many French colonial possessions. She said that being a custom of these countries it should not be interfered with. During the course of the discussion, Mrs. Bodil Bergtrup of Denmark was reported as stating: "There are also areas where women can have more husbands than one." But she didn't say what she had in mind. Our Horses & Women Department has been instructed to check on this statement. We feel some details of life in areas where women have two or more husbands might prove interesting to some of our feminine subscribers. Especially those who seem to be having a tough time in acquiring even one husband.

SIDELIGHTS: The Australian National Airways inaugurated a policy of $8000 free insurance for passengers. One week after the policy went into effect 21 A. N. A. passengers lost their lives in a crash at Hobart, Tasmania . . . Another Josephine song is "Josephine, My Jo." You have to be a real old timer to remember that one . . . Now I have a reader in Rattle Run, Mich. I haven't found it on my Michigan road map yet. I'll try again tonight with magnifying glasses.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Were Ethel Barrymore and John Drew ever co-starred in a stage production? A—They appeared together in a revival of "A Scrap of Paper." I saw this revival. It was one of the dullest evenings I ever spent in a theater. Q—Commenting on some chicken I served my husband, the cad said the bird must have been at least 15 years old at the time of its demise. I claimed chickens don't live that long. How about it? A—The life expectancy of a chicken is between 15 and 20 years. So maybe your husband was right.

LITTLE CHURCH: Louise Albritton, the exceedingly comely actress, is a reader of this column (she says). I, therefore, noted with considerable interest that Louise and Charles Collingwood were recently married in the Little Church Around the Corner. I am among those who have the happy distinction of having said "I do" in the same picturesque Little Church. This fulfilled one of my boyhood ambitions. In fact, when around 12 years old I pointed that church out to my father and said: "Pop, that's where I am going to get married." He answered facetiously: "Who's the lucky girl?" But I proved to him later on I wasn't kidding.

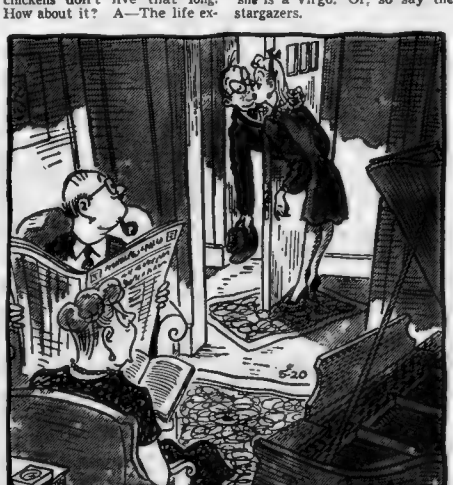
MORALE BUILDERS: Considering the extent to which the reputation of Brooklyn suffered from the novel, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," and the many references to "Murder, Inc.," it is extremely refreshing to note the brilliant war correspondent, Hal Boyle, has written as follows: "If you picked any five guys at random from the infantry, one of them was sure to be from Brooklyn. One Brooklyn boy was a better morale builder than any three U. S. O. camp shows. His wry humor and endless wisecracks as he labored up a cliff carrying a mortar plate would keep a line of weary doughboys grinning all the way."

BY REQUEST: Four Virgo-born (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) young women of Manhattan accuse me of having totally ignored what the stargazers have to say regarding their sign. I hasten to rectify the situation. Virgo women admire intellectual men. John Kieran is the Virgo's Gregory Peck. The Virgo's method of man-handling is distinctly maternal. She treats her husband like a little boy. She has a passion for correcting people's grammar and pointing out errors in etiquette. Virgo women are excellent matrimonial material and make unusually good wives if properly trained and handled by a clever man. One of the leading Virgo virtues is that they are usually economical and not at all expensive to support. When you hear of a woman who has made a pair of nylons last three years it is very probable she is a Virgo. Or, so say the stargazers.



"I detest that little squirt so, I can hardly wait to become his mother-in-law!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

ACTORS, THOSE vain and precious dream-world creatures, having been unionized since just a little while after the first big war, I do not doubt that the professional ballplayers could be brought together in some similar bund for mutual protection against the cruel whims and rapacity of the soulless corporations which operate the industry.

Westbrook Pegler

They toil under some conditions which moan for redress.

Squalor is hardly the word for their state, but their standard form of contract is unfair, being a 20-year enlistment on the player's part from the date of his first agreement but subject to cancellation on ten days' notice by the employers when an arm goes lame or the eyes grow dim, and always on the boss' terms.

Two such attempts have been made in the past, The Brotherhood of ancient times, which started as a players' fraternity and went into business as a league, employing its own members, and a feeble thing that came to life as a protest against the underpayment of the White Sox of 1919, uttered a few faint cries and were no more.

The proprietors had the advantage of an emotional public opinion in ignoring this latter rebellion.

For one thing, disregarding the fact that the greatest ball-club to date had been paid coolie wages by a rich owner, Charlie Comiskey, the patrons regarded baseball as an almost sacred public institution and the players as priests of their cult.

AFTER THE EXPOSE the alleged conspirators were branded and banished forever from baseball as though they had been traitors to their country. A young Milwaukee lawyer named Cannon then took up their defense and revealed that these historic stars had received an average salary of less than $3000.

Mr. Cannon fought noisily for his clients and so, while he never could win amnesty and reinstatement, he did establish in the minds of those who were willing to consider the evidence the fact that the entire management of Major League baseball was cynical and greedy and was exploiting public enthusiasm. He rode to Congress on the winds he raised in this case.

DICK KERR, an undersized and underpaid Texan, who won two games for the White Sox, asked for a raise and was refused. He failed to report for spring training, but called at the club's hotel when the Sox passed through Dallas on their way north.

Lou Comiskey, the owner's son, who was in command of the team, refused even to see him. Kerr vanished and was forgotten in a week.

Discussion of the reserve clause and the ten-day clause in the standard player's contract, now heard again, is repetitious.

These matters were argued with fury back in the twenties not only in print and on the trains but, in some cases, in court where the corporations either won or settled on the side so as to keep adverse precedents off the books.

The mental quality of the players was improving meanwhile, and a few young men being sold for high prices demanded part of the money and, in some cases, made the owners pay.

Some others, being scouted in school, found legal advisers who made the clubs pay their clients bonuses for signing.

In effect they "sold" themselves, but these have been exceptions and the relations between player and management remain about the same.

THE PROBLEMS of bargaining and conditions of work are so complex in detail that I cannot see over them and comprehend a successful relationship between management and players dealing through a union.

But then, the relations between actors and producers are complicated in as many ways and as temperamental and touchy and they have worked on union terms ever since their great Broadway strike of 1920 which so outraged George M. Cohan that he quit the theater forever, or roughly, for about two years.

If unionism comes to baseball, and with whatever consequences, including the slow-down and sabotage in the throwing of games according to the now familiar custom of boss-baiting under unionism, the owners will have some of themselves to blame.

Not all, but enough of them, have been harsh and arrogant, mean in money matters and completely ruthless in imposing on the youth of great players such as Dizzy Dean who used himself up long before his time.

Of course, unionism will destroy the artistry, efficiency and enthusiasm of the players and impair the spectacle for the customers.

But the unionism of the last ten years has had these effects in most industries.

Hollywood

By Dorothy Manners
Substituting for Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 20—Help, help, help! Peggy Cummins is OUT of "Bob, Son of Battle" and IN the ingenue lead with Ronald Colman in "The Late George Apley."

The little Irish girl, who was originally "out" of "Forever Amber," must be beginning to feel that her career on the 20th lot is just one exit after another. But this switch is certainly nothing to cry about. The role of Eleanor, the Apley daughter, should be a much better opportunity than the dog opus.

Peggy Cummings

I'll say again that you have to hand it to Darryl Zanuck for trying to do his best for Peggy. She took the "Amber" thing with real sportsmanship and while she wasn't happy about "Bob, Son of Battle," she didn't argue about it. Joe Mankiewicz directs "Apley," the J. P. Marquand novel and stage play, with Freddie Kohlmar producing.

HOLLYWOOD CAN forget about "Born Yesterday" and take back its gold. Max Gordon will produce his own show independently with Author Garson Kanin writing the screenplay and directing the film. And Gordon hasn't seen anybody around that he likes better than Paul Douglas and Judy Holliday, of the stage cast, for the movie. Columbia is a good guess for the releasing company, as Gordon has made other pictures with Harry Cohn. An aside on this is—Jean Arthur, who had to leave the original stage cast because of illness, would like another chance at it in the picture—IF she doesn't do "Voice of the Turtle."

ERROL FLYNN, who was going yachting around the world—ain't. And he's exactly $37,000 poorer for ever having had the idea in the first place. That's what it cost him just to prepare for the jaunt that would take him around the globe on his boat. After getting reports on conditions from places where he wanted to stop, he decided it would be more of a hardship than a pleasure cruise at this time. So he'll head, instead, to his old stamping ground, Mexico.

SPEAKING OF FLYNN, there's a hot one going around that he will do "The Hucksters" on the MGM lot now that Clark Gable has turned down the Frederic Wakeman best seller. $200,000 worth of property is SOME turning down and before you tell me I'm crazy—remember this: MGM gets Errol for one picture on a lend-lease deal in exchange for William Powell, who is making "Life With Father" for Warners. The part of the wolfish "ad" executive doesn't fit any other MGM star—Van Johnson, Walter Pidgeon or Spencer Tracy. If not Gable—why not Flynn?

OUCH NOTE OF WEEK: Al Hall, the director who operates a big turkey ranch on the side, had to drown 10,000 baby turks at a loss of $15,000 because he can't get grain to feed them. Hall supplies most of the poultry to the big restaurants in town. Happy Thanksgiving!

CARLTON ALSOP'S announcement from the coast of an impending divorce took Martha Scott completely by surprise in New York. Not that she was surprised about the rift. As the other interested party, she realized the separation was inevitable. But she had understood that it was to be kept quiet at least until she arrived in California in June and had a chance to break the news herself, which is the usual Emily Post of it. She didn't know that her husband had jumped the gun until she read it in the New York newspapers. The lady is hurt.

IN ANSWER to the query, "Is Ann Miller expecting the stork?"—but definitely, "No". The rumor started when Ann was taken ill on the set of "Thrill of Brazil" and was taken home, where the ailment was diagnosed as intestinal flu. Ann, and her millionaire husband, Reese Milner, would like to have a bambino but are not on the expectant list.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Cyd Charisse, Metro ballet queen, and her husband, Nico, are tottering on the brink. They have a four-year-old son; Mary Lou Dix and Bud Wolfe are now a trio—it's a seven-pound baby boy; F. Hugh Herbert has a fiction story, "Triple Horror Bill" coming out in the next Cosmopolitan that kids the shivers off the chillers; last week three different pictures were announced for Glenn Ford—all false. He officially gets a vacation after "Gallant Journey," the picture he's making now and he's going officially to take it; Freddy Martin's bringing his one-horse stable to Hollywood Park. Nag's been racing enthusiastically at Bay Meadows—but no pay off.

WITH FRANK LATIMORE its Bonita Granville and vice versa: To all of you who call daily about Louella Parsons—she's coming along beautifully about 24 hours ahead of schedule. That's that fighting heart of hers. You can get her down—but not for long. There will be a lot of red faces when Warners stage their big banquet Aug. 6, observing the 20th anniversary of sound. Many biggies quoted as saying "sound is just a passing fancy" will be requoted. Louella was one of them, and admits it, and I love her revised comment: "Sometimes I think it still is!" If Ross Hunter and Audrey Totter don't care they're giving an eight-karat imitation. He just gifted her with a bootiful bracelet. Don't tell me I mentioned "The Jolson Story" without adding that Sidney Skolsky is the producer. My apologies, Senor. Barbara Ford, John's daughter, is so determined to stand on her own that she pulled off Pappy's home lot, 20th, and got herself an assistant cutter's job with Ben Bogeaus on "The Short and Happy Life of Francis Macomber." Now if she can just cut that title! That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Boston After Dark

MONDAY MUSINGS: Trying to make Boston appear to be the only major city in the country with a blue-nose has reached a point where action is needed . . . Jimmy Fidler, the syndicated Hollywood scribe and radio oracle, is the newest offender . . . Jimmy told his Sunday night listeners that the Boston city censor had told Miriam Hopkins that he would close her show ("Laura") unless she dressed "less revealingly."

AS SAMUEL NESSON, the Boston city censor, had happened to be with Miss Hopkins in the Ritz bar after the premiere of "Laura," and as your correspondent was present throughout the meeting, we are in a position to report authoritatively that Censor Nesson did not threaten to "close Miss Hopkins' show." Both he and his talented wife—to be exact—complimented the female star of "Laura" on her entire wardrobe (by Valentine) . . . THAT we heard.

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED at the premiere of "Laura" seems to have been a press-agent stunt—with or without the consent of Miss Hopkins but probably without—which backfired . . . The Boston censor was given a telegram by an usher of the Wilbur theater that night which was signed by a name that appeared neither in the phone book nor the directory . . . The signatory's name was followed by that of a phony organization—some variety of women's club that does not exist.

MR. NESSON IS AN ALERT young man and he became suspicious on reading the telegram after perceiving that an instruction to page him at the theater started the message . . . Meantime, city editors had been tipped—anonymously—that the censor was going to close 'Laura' because Miss Hopkins was wearing no undergarments."

IN THE TELEGRAM to Nesson, the message based the complaint on an alleged failure of Miss Hopkins to wear enough clothes in Philadelphia, and called the result "appalling" . . . The tip to the city desks must have sounded convincing because a group of cameramen were besieging Miss Hopkins' dressing room after her premiere . . . And the city censor went backstage, too . . . But he stayed only briefly, extended his compliments, and took his leave.

THE LATER MEETING with the star of the show was coincidental . . . Miss Hopkins made an appearance at the Ritz just as the Nesson party was leaving . . . But the two groups merged for a final slug of grape juice or ginger ale, and all was pleasant and cordial . . . The unidentified informant of the Boston city editors, however, was still on the job . . . He must have passed the word along in an attempt to substantiate the first phony tip that Miss Hopkins and Mr. Nesson were, at the moment, talking things over at the Ritz.

ONE CAREFUL city editor—the astute Myles McSweeney, a protege of this department—telephoned the city censor and inquired deeply into the situation . . . Censor Nesson protested that he was passing the time of midnight at the Ritz, that it was a sociable interlude with no overtones of business, and that among those present in his party happened to be yours truly . . . Was he with Miss Hopkins? . . . No, indeed . . . (Miss Hopkins had not yet put in an appearance) . . . This was still not enough for Night City Editor McSweeney . . . In a few minutes, he was summoning your correspondent to the phone.

"I JUST WANTED to be sure that I was talking to the city censor," said he to me . . . "I don't know him and I don't know his voice . . . Is he there at the Ritz—with you? . . . Mr. McSweeney was assured that this was true . . . And that ended the episode of Miss Hopkins' wardrobe and its fabricated incitement of the Boston city editor.

NO NEWSPAPER in Boston fell for the rumor . . . Not as much as a line of type appeared in any newspaper—not even a line about the false report . . . And now it comes over the airwaves from Hollywood with the weight of Mr. Fidler's oracular headtones and is believed, undoubtedly, by the major part of his large audience . . . The cumulative effect of these radio and columnar jibes at Boston's supposed conscriousness serves to make the city ridiculous . . . It is unfair, and should be stopped.

NEW YORK, May 20—Players from Hollywood troop into Gotham week after week, and they gather around the tables at the Stork Club and 21 and Sardi's, talking about—of all things—Hollywood. If you like to listen to them, and most New Yorkers do, you pick up no end of assorted information about the land where dreams are props.

Carole Landis

You learn, for instance, that Errol Flynn's current so-called novel of adventure, "Showdown," is no cause for furor because its author happens to be a hero of the flickers. The ability to write one's name and read a subtitle is not so uncommon out there as the wags would have you believe, and Errol was no trailblazer when he dashed off his deathless prose.

The list of Hollywood actors and actresses who have crashed the book stalls is long and fascinating. William S. Hart, stern-visaged star of the silents, caused quite a stir some years back with his tome, "Pinto Ben" Mary Pickford authored a book called "The Demi-Woman."

Erich Von Stroheim assaulted a portable to produce "Paprika." Harold Lloyd wrote "An American Comedy," which sold rather well, and Victor McLaglen scribbled something called "Express to Hollywood."

Ivan Lebedeff's novel of intrigue, "Legion of Dishonor," George Sanders' "Crime On My Hands," and Carole Landis' "Four Jills in a Jeep" are further proof from the past that Errol did nothing new.

WASHINGTON, May 20—Dull care sat upon the brow of Miss Marion Reid, my executive assistant in charge of lousing up the office. It's a good thing it wasn't sharp care or it might have dented her ravishing kisser.

"Why are you looking so worried and downcast this glorious May morning?" I snarled blithely. "You should be dancing around the Maypole—and if I catch you at it in here there will be trouble."

"I have good reason to be upset," retorted the damsel, shifting her girdle three points to starboard. "I am a housewife. At least I have an apartment, even if there is no husband to clutter it up, thank merciful Heaven. And OPA seems to have gone stark raving mad!"

I asked what OPA had done now to bring her gray hairs in sorrow to the grave and she snapped:

"What indeed? I am almost certain garlic juice is going to skyrocket!"

"Garlic juice doesn't skyrocket," I protested. "It squirts."

"Why don't you go downstairs and get your face caught in the presses?" snarled Miss Reid. "What I am trying to tell you is that OPA seems to have gone hog wild. It has lifted ceilings on nearly a hundred more food items."

"What, for instance?"

"Well, garlic juice like I told you. Supposing garlic juice goes away up and I want to bake a nice garlic pie—which I would be glad to cram down your throat, Smarty-Pants—the cost might be prohibitive."

"I think you can nosey along without garlic juice," I said. "What else?"

"Well, anchovy spreads and shark fillets, and banana powder and Chinese water chestnuts and canary seed and—"

"Sprats?" I cried. "That will be very tough on Jake Katz."

"Who's Jake Katz?"

"You remember the nursery rhyme?" I said. "Jake Katz could eat no sprats, his wife could eat no lean—?"

"Shut up! They've also exempted cured herring. Suppose the herring doesn't stay cured and has a relapse? Will OPA foot the doctor's bills?"

"What you need," I said, "is a good long rest. Take the next ten minutes off. What else has OPA exempted?"

"I hate to tell you," said Miss Reid, "because it makes me shudder just to think of it. But it has lifted the ceiling on canned rabbit!"

I asked Miss Reid if she would pardon me a minute while I went "Ugh!" She said I could look over the rest of the OPA list myself.

"There's one here that might interest you," I said. "You won't have to be bothered with price controls in getting your mate."

"That isn't the kind of mate you're thinking of," snapped Miss Reid. "It's a South American tea."

"But it's a vital item," I said. "They're always singing about it. Woman needs man—and man must have his mate ——"

Maybe we all need a rest in this office.

RECENTLY I wrote two columns about the United Nations Security Council in which I quoted Walter Trohan, the illustrious journalist, at length. The latter circumstance appears to have upset Miss Corinne Griffith, beautiful ex-film star.

Miss Griffith, who also has a beautiful lot of money, is now sojourning in Beverly Hills, Cal., where she will probably stay until it is time for her to return and do the supercoaching for the Washington Redskins, owned by her silent and taciturn spouse, George Preston Marshall. Anyway, she writes:

"What a revolting situation! Trohan two days in succession! I know the old saying 'A Trohan a day will keep the readers away' but have you so many that you can take a chance like that?

"I thought, the first day, that it was just a sense of gratitude on your part for a meal of Mrs. Trohan's, but even Carol's good cooking isn't deserving of two days running.

"I realize the strain you are under living in Washington, with an occasional invasion by Sportscaster Harry Wismer, but nothing really warrants Trohan two days running. I keep repeating that to myself.

"And keep away from that U.N.—American conference too. That's liable to lead to most anything. In the meantime, I am still your most frantic fan."

Miss Griffith, I think you're wonderful. But what you see in Marshall ——?

Booth Tarkington Rites Tomorrow

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20 (AP)—Booth Tarkington, whose novels found a place on the world's bookshelves, died last night in the Indianapolis home in which he had done much of his writing. He was 76.

Private funeral services will be conducted tomorrow.

Tarkington's literary output was prodigious, and the quality was equal to the quantity. Two of his novels brought him the Pulitzer prize for literature—"The Magnificent Ambersons" in 1919 and "Alice Adams" three years later.

From his Indianapolis home and his summer residence at Kennebunkport, Me., Tarkington watched the world pass by, never failing to inject his opinions on issues which interested him.

Nylon Lines? No! Newspapers

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 (AP)—News-hungry Philadelphians, a five-day-old strike of truck drivers for a paid lunch period having halted deliveries of the city's largest newspapers, today lined up by the thousands to buy copies at the plants.

Hundreds of others bought papers from youngsters at black market prices which went as high as 25 cents a copy. (It's three-cents normally).

The walkout halted deliveries of the Morning Record and Inquirer and the Evening Bulletin with a combined circulation of 1,500,000.

Representatives of both union and management announced there was no settlement in sight, that no negotiations were in progress, and that there were no plans for any meeting.

Editions of all papers were cut in size, with most of the advertising eliminated. Radio stations read the comics and increased the daily schedule of news broadcasts.

"Information" HAS NUMBERS OF VETERANS' NEWLY INSTALLED TELEPHONES

It's usually a simple matter to reach returned veterans in business for themselves. Just ask "Information" for the number if the name is not in the directory. She has the number available the same day the telephone is installed. (It's the same for every one getting a new telephone.)

To help "Information" find the number quickly, please give the name and address of the desired party. If you think the telephone was installed within a day or two, tell her that, too.

The telephone company keeps up-to-the-minute data on new numbers. When a telephone is installed the name, address and telephone number of the new subscriber are teletyped to "Information." These names and numbers are arranged alphabetically and become immediately available. Next day, they are placed in the regular records with which information operators work.

To locate returned veterans in business for themselves whose names are not in your telephone directory, just call "Information."

*In some localities, central office connections are at the physical capacity of the office. Applications for new telephones in those places are being held for the installation of additional facilities.

Walsh, Vinson Fight Merger

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Chairman Walsh (D.) of Rhode Island and Vinson (D.) of Georgia of the potent Senate and House naval committees wrote off the pending Army-Navy merger bill today as doomed.

Congress, they said in a letter to Navy Sec. Forrestal, "will not approve" any plan calling for a single department, hence they asked Forrestal not to enter any compromise with War Sec. Patterson based on such a step.

While asserting that the war revealed "some weaknesses in our defense organization," Walsh and Vinson added these could be remedied "without completely disorganizing the defense structure which was so successful in bringing the war to a favorable conclusion."

How to Fix, Mould Your Figure

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

NO MATTER HOW MUCH CHARM or beauty we have . . . there are few of us who couldn't do with just a little more. Like happiness, the more we have . . . the more we want. It is a limitless treasure enriching its possessor . . . and those who come in contact with her.

We can't all be beauties . . . but we can . . . we must . . . be called charming. That's a priceless compliment no woman, young or old, careerist or homemaker, can afford to miss. So when I call your attention to a charm course which a traditionally famous beauty salon is sponsoring . . . it is not to charge you with a total lack of this beauty quality . . . but to urge you to avail yourself of the opportunity of enhancing to a greater degree the invaluable quality you already have. To protect and perpetuate it in a design for living that demands feminine loveliness.

Perhaps your figure needs a little moulding . . . a little fixing here and there for summertime display and comfort and attraction. Maybe your hairdo is pleasing . . . but in the hands of an expert it could be unbelievably improved and personalized to reveal latent loveliness and charm. Then, too, your knowledge of skin care and beauty could be extended.

Then, too, we women are so close to ourselves all the time that we fail to recognize the objective viewpoint which can . . . and does . . . bring new and wonderful vitality to our personalities. At this salon . . . you'll be taken apart, figuratively, and put together again . . . to emerge as a more radiant, glorious personality . . . one you never dreamed possible.

All this . . . and personalized attention, too . . . is offered at this salon . . . and at a ridiculously negligible cost

This is not a charm or beauty course in the true sense of the word. There are no group meetings where beauty information is doled out on a wholesale basis . . . so generalized that you lose out on your individual needs. The sessions are private and arranged at your convenience . . . with trained specialists in figure, skin and hair care taking you in hand under the complete tutelage of a charming overall expert

You can glean all this charm wisdom in two meetings if you so desire . . . one to last almost 3 hours . . . the other from 3½ to 4 hours . . . or you can space the interviews and treatment . . . the entire program, however, not to exceed a fortnight.

For the name of the famous beauty salon featuring this personalized charm session, phone the Beauty Dept. LIBerty 4000, every day except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Here are the specifications of a wonderful and concentrated charm course offered by a noted beauty house. The sum total of which will help you take the spotlight to show off the good points of your figure and your clothes . . . as Universal star, Zorina, does in this white linen black velvet coat . . . with matching black velvet beret.

Plans for Home Wedding

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Having recently arrived from England, I am not yet accustomed to American ways. But since my arrival I have been reading your column, have learned much from it, and would so much appreciate your help in planning my wedding next month to an ex-GI. It is to be a home wedding, very informal, and the reception will be at an inn.

1—At the reception is it proper to receive and greet every guest?

2—Who toasts the bride? And what would be a proper toast?

3—How is a 2-tier wedding cake cut? And who cuts it before it is served?

J. T. B.

1—Yes. You and the bridegroom (you at his right) stand together to greet each arriving guest. If you are to have an attendant, she stands at your right. (The best man does not stand in the receiving-line, and neither do ushers.) And if, at the inn, it is convenient to have others in the receiving-line, you may, if you wish, and if it is possible include someone (a relative perhaps, or a friend here) as a representative of your family, and also in the line may be the bridegroom's mother and possibly his father. (I must mention all these "if's" because you did not tell me who is to be at the wedding. I wish you would write me again, more fully about your plans, so that I can answer your question about the reception more definitely.)

2—Customarily it is the best man who proposes the first toast, the toast to the bride and her bridegroom, and the bridegroom replies with thanks for his bride and himself. Other toasts may be proposed and usually are . . . and I'm pretty sure that on this occasion there will be toasts proposed to you, toasts to welcome you as well as to offer you "best wishes for your happiness always!"

3—You, the bride, should cut the first slice of cake from the bottom tier, and share it with the bridegroom . . . symbolizing your promise to share with him now and always. When only a few guests are present at the reception, the bride sometimes cuts the rest of the cake for the guests. Or a waiter or caterer's assistant may cut and serve it. Or if the service is buffet, the guests may cut the cake for themselves.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Sauerkraut, Country Style Sausage Will Please Dad

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

WHEN all is said and done, it's the men in our families for whom we cook. This is evident when Dad goes out of town and the family menus seem to get somewhat on the lighter side. It's evident, too, from the number of mannish dishes we serve throughout the year—such hearty things as pot roast, stew, corned beef and cabbage, sausage and sauerkraut, and so on.

In honor of good old Dad who plugs away year in and year out to "bring home the bacon," so to speak, surprise him one of these days with a dinner of spicy sauerkraut and country style pork sausage. This type of sausage which has been available throughout most of the meat shortage, comes smoked or fresh, in various size links. Fresh country pork sausage comes in short, fat links, but you've probably been buying it most of the time in lengths cut from a long coil.

Smoked pork sausage comes not only as smoked country style sausages, but also as Thuringer links and Polish sausage. You'll recognize the latter because of its horseshoe shaped link, which measures about 12 inches.

COUNTRY SAUSAGE WITH SPICY SAUERKRAUT

1½ lbs. country sausage, fresh or smoked
1 No. 2½ can sauerkraut
1 apple
5 cloves
½ tsp. caraway seed
1 small onion
2 tbsp. brown sugar

Gently cook the sauerkraut for ½ hour in a cov red pan with the coarsely chopped apple and onion, and the seasonings. Meanwhile, place the sausage links or length of sausage in a skillet with ½ cup water. Bring water to a boil, then reduce heat, cover, and cook slowly until water evaporates. Remove cover and brown sausage well on all sides. Serve hot sauerkraut topped with the links or short lengths of sausage. (If smoked sausage is used—country style, Thuringer, or Polish—links may be cooked right on top of the kraut without browning. Or they may be browned well first, then cooked with the kraut. When cooked this way, there's a nice exchange of flavors between kraut and sausage.

Pork sausage links and bulk sausage still are relatively plentiful, so that you can actually plan sausage dinners in advance. Remember that slow cooking keeps the plump sausage links with unbroken skins. The skin holds in the flavor and juices of the meat, so be careful not to prick it. Be sure that all pork sausage, fresh or cooked, is cooked well done.

For small fresh pork sausage links, the best method of cooking is to add a few tablespoons of water to the skillet, cover, and steam links for 5 minutes. then drain off any remaining water and cook over low heat, turning sausage frequently until brown. Another method is to brown the sausage over moderate heat, then reduce the heat and cook slowly until done.

FOR THE key to your or anybody else's heart here is a Judy-Bound key blouse that's right for many occasions. It is a white rayon jersey blouse with key motif printed in black. It has a narrow round yoke and flattering frontal fullness. NBC's Leslye Woods likes to wear it with slacks, suits, and dinner skirts. It could be a prolific topic of conversation—R. M.

The first method is generally preferred.

SAUSAGE SCRAMBLE

4 sausages
4 eggs, slightly beaten
⅛ tsp. pepper
¼ cup milk
½ tsp. salt
Mashed potatoes or toast

Cut sausages in small pieces and saute in a frying pan until tender. Pour off part of fat and add eggs, slightly beaten and mixed with milk and pepper. Stir lightly with a fork until egg is set and creamy in consistency. Serve on hot toast or mashed potatoes. Makes 6 servings.

SAUSAGE RAREBIT

1 lb. sausage
2 tbsp. fat
½ lb. soft, mild cheese, cut in pieces
1 cup thin cream
¼ tsp. salt
Few grains cayenne
3 eggs, slightly beaten

Cook sausage until done in frying pan. Melt fat, add cheese and seasonings. As soon as the cheese melts, add cream gradually and slightly beaten eggs. When mixture is smooth, add the cooked sausage on toast points.

Chic Summer Dresses

By BETTINA BEDWELL

COTTONS are holding the lead they got last summer as top flight fabrics for hot weather in town. There will be a lot of very chic, and practical cotton dresses and suits for this usage, and the best dressed are going to wear them, so the experts tell me.

Cotton two-piece dresses done in soft neutral shades or black are very good items in this connection, and one such model is the subject of Miss Dulin's sketch. This is a Hope Skillman cotton in coordinated striped and plain pale gray cotton.

6 COs Continue Hunger Strike

LOS ANGELES, May 20 (AP)—Six conscientious objectors held in the county jail for federal authorities were on their second day of a hunger strike today against the segregation of a Negro member of their group.

Arrested on charges of failing to obey draft instructions, five of the objectors were assigned to a large cell with other prisoners. The Negro, Richard Stanhouse, was placed in another cell.

Jail Inspector Charles A. Fitzgerald said it was the practice to segregate races.

Convict Enters 7th Day Without Food

ST. LOUIS, May 20 (INS)—A 33-year-old convicted automobile thief, who has declared he will starve himself to death, entered the seventh day of his self-enforced fast today at the St. Louis jail.

But James E. Bundren admitted that he's feeling "a little giddy."

Wellesley Man Held In 21-Steak Theft

Charged with larceny of 21 steaks, 30 lamb chops and a lobster from the icebox of a turnpike restaurant in Wellesley, Richard E. Kent, 31, of Marion ave., Wellesley, was ordered held in $2000 for the grand jury today after Judge Gilbert W. Cox found probable cause in Dedham District Court.

The loot was found in Kent's home, Police Sgt. James Chisholm testified.

Hub Orchids For 'Breakfast'

By PEGGY DOYLE

That man who makes it pay in orchids and kisses to have silver threads among the gold and his popular radio show, "Breakfast in Hollywood," are now to be caught on the Majestic and Tremont screens.

Producer Robert S. Golden has surrounded him . . . and he would be, of course, Tom Breneman . . . with some reliable boxoffice standbys, doubly insuring healthy business.

These "names" include Bonita Granville, Andy Russell, Billie Burke, ZaSu Pitts, Beulah Bondi, Raymond Walburn, the King Cole Trio and Spike "King of Corn" Jones and his City Slickers who have clowned the classics into big business.

The long arm of coincidence gets a terrific workout in the photographed "breakfast" show but it was all hunky-dooley with the loyal turnout that packed the Majestic at Saturday's opening show. The genial Breneman, if you'll excuse the anatomical repetitiousness, had them eating out of his hand at the morning, noon and night unreeling just as he does when they dial him at fast-breaking time Monday through Friday.

Miss Bondi's silverhead is an appealing and authoritative characterization, one that rates the most demanding critic's orchid tribute. In an altogether and strictly hilarious different vein, "King" Jones delivers. His musical mayhem though it might shock the Symphony regulars panicked this and countless other devotees in the house.

Miss Granville's skill and charm, Edward Ryan's credible shy sailor and Andy Russell's steadily improving acting and his always listenable voice are other "Breakfast" assets. Too, Walburn's balding playboy and Miss Burke, as his Minnie-Mouse-into-glamour-wife are somewhat amusing if carbon-copy portrayals.

The companion picture is "Strange Voyage."

NINTH TOURING CO.

Oscar Serlin is casting the ninth touring company of "Life with Father." It is said the players will be entirely new. There is a strong likelihood that the Russel Crouse-Howard Lindsay dramatization of Clarence Day's New Yorker stories may open at the Colonial Aug. 19, initiating a coast-to-coast 40-week season.

At The Pops

The Pops program at Symphony Hall tonight follows:

2 Freed in Race Bet Welch Case

When bets are telephoned and police seize no slips, there is no case, according to Middlesex Superior Court Judge Allan Buttrick, who today found two Waltham men not guilty on charges of registering bets.

The men, Joseph Cincotta, 39, and Joseph Hines, 38, both of River st., were arrested when a Waltham man complained to police he had placed a winning bet with the defendants and they welched on the payoff.

Atty. Martin P. Hall, counsel for the pair, told the court evidence was missing and cited decisions in other courts to uphold his claim. Judge Buttrick agreed.

CARDINAL RAPS REDS

COPENHAGEN, May 20 (INS)—Joseph Cardinal Frings of Cologne charged today that Germans in the Soviet zone were living "worse than the Belsen prisoners."

It's a heavier load than it was in 1941!

Yes, we're carrying a bigger burden than ever! Revenues have shown a normal growth due to increased riding. But expenses have really ballooned! Operating and maintenance costs have doubled since 1941. Federal taxes are almost three times their pre-war level. By careful management we've succeeded in cutting depreciation charges and interest on funded debt. It certainly keeps us "on our toes" to provide adequate transportation service under today's conditions.

Twilight of a Champion: Baer Comes to Boston

By AUSTEN LAKE

PROFESSIONAL SPORT HASN'T as many cuckoo characters as it uster. There's George P. Marshall, the human hyacinth who owns the Washington Redskins, and Charley Grimm, the pixilated manager of the Cubs, and Lippy Leo Durocher, the male hysteric of Brooklyn, and Mike Jacobs, the fight impresario with the china teeth.

Austen Lake

But the man who used to make sport writing a delirious joy is the one who grins when you called him Addled Adelbert—the only and original Max Baer, the gent with the rubber legs, garrulous tongue and school girl heart. He's in Boston tomorrow to shake the local sugar bush for some easy profits with some monkey faces and super club antics. Adulation is Adelbert's favorite dish.

It is some years since the simian-faced fighter who was more chimp than champ visited our polite purlieus. Then he came in charge of his commercial keeper, Ancil Hoffman, who unbarred the door and let me into the royal chamber. Max was asleep, his moist curls nestled against the pillow. But when Ancil shook him and said "Visitors" he woke up talking.

Max's Folly His Charm!

"JOE LOUIS IS JUST A club fighter," he said before he had knuckled the fog out of his eyes. "I figure to fight him again soon."

It was sheer nonsense of course, because it hadn't occurred to Max that he would ever climb through the ropes with the lethal Negro after the night that he'd collapsed in the slack attitude of a wood nymph beside a forest pool and outwaited the referee's numerals. Maxie would as soon stuck his head into the whirling blade of an airplane propellor as meet the whisky-colored heavyweight. But he likes to surprise people and just as often surprises himself.

O, for the gay days when the sport world was filled with garrulous goofs. O, for a Danno O'Mahoney, a Lefty Grove, Jack Sharkey, Dizzy Dean, Joe Jacobs, Willie Werber, Babe Ruth and that frivolous fellowship which made our job quite painless. Where are you now, brave clowns?

Baer's charm is the candor with which he confesses his folly. Blessed with a magnificent body, he had the early mental age of a child—the same open artlessness, the same love for schoolboy mischief, the same bragging bluff.

In memory's album I have a special spot reserved for the night that Joe biffed Max's ears off and Baer sagged to the floor and lifted his right arm with an empty swimming motion, as a man in his cups might summon a taxi. He intended, he said later, to convey a last mocking farewell to the 86,000 witnesses who sat in the gloom. He meant to bring the thumb of his padded mitten up to his nose as a final derisive salute to the ringside authors who had ridiculed his training. But his muscular control had come unhinged and he couldn't find his nose. Still at this moment of crisis the one commanding impulse was the wish to be theatrical, the predominating urge of his life.

Afterward when Max went to the Park Central Hotel, battered and bleeding, it was Maw Baer who took his defeat as a family calamity while Pa Baer, a farm philosopher, just meditated over his black pipe and said he was glad the kid didn't get killed. And wot t'ell, Maw, Max got the dough, didn't he, and wa'nt hurt none that a little tape and liniment won't cure.

But militant Maw saw the family glamour fading and snuffled up her moisture to remark, "Well, anyway, Buddy will be my champion now." But Paw just squirted an amber stream through his teeth and said, "Shux, Maw, you can feel sorry for $200,000."

O, for those giddy, carefree days when life was a round of sport-page hilarity and there were no labor wars, greedy international neighbors, economy of starvation and global recrimination. The world seems to have grown old and crabbed in these few short years.

Man of Many Parts

THE TROUBLE WITH INTERVIEWING Max was that impulses passed through his cerebellum like gusts of wind through a corn crib. And he'd add "Eh, Pop?" in Hoffman's direction, never waiting to see which way Pop jerked his head. He's been taking care of his diet and his money, he sends word. Which recalls how, when he was boxing he was told that diet was an important part of a fighter's regimen. So he hired a dietician to draw up a food schedule, and when it was complete ordered the dietician to eat the diet while he, Max, observed the result, in vile corpore, so to speak. "The fellow picked the food," said Max. "Now let him eat it."

And money was just so much colored coupons, printed to be spent. So in the early time when he needed ready scratch Max just sold a hunk of himself, as a butcher parcels cut chunks of beef. Max used to rock with laughter when he told me about it, saying "another guy would have pawned his watch or his overcoat, but I'd just put another 5 per cent of myself in soak for as little as $200 and give the buyer a receipt."

It cost him about $250,000 to buy back all of his fragments, under court judgments and another $75,000 in lawyer's fees. So, when I saw him last, he said he thought he had bought all of himself back, though there might still be a finger or a toe outstanding. The only part of himself that he never pawned, he said, was his head, because it brought no bidders in public auction.

Baer is leading the life he prefers now, the midnight hot spots, the cacaphony of night club bands, the silken shimmer of female skirts, the din, bustle and clamor of the fun shops. He had always hated the woodsie retreats where he did his training. He'd hated the hills that rolled away from his dooryard in purple mist. He hated the green foliage, and the splash of trout that leaped from his silver lake, and the still void during the night time when only the sleepy chirp of a bird or the gurgle of a hoot owl broke the quiet. To heck, he had growled, with a fighter's life.

So pixilated Max finds himself a night club pet again and has gone back to his old habits of rising in some midnight supper palace and baritoning a stave or two in his best Bing Crosby b-b-b-boo style. He is hungry for appreciation. It's the twilight of a ring buffoon and Max likes it better than when he was making a fortune by taking commercial wallops on the whiskers. He says he likes the feeling of grease paint better than Munsell's solution with which he used to close wounds over his eyes.

Cooper Duels Passeau Under Wigwam Lights

By BILL GRIMES

Unable to arrive at a decision in yesterday's double header, the Braves and Cubs will resume their battle for third place tonight under the lights. But for the fact that they blew a six-run lead in the opener, the Tribe would be sole owners of the No. 3 spot and only a half game in arrears of the Dodgers. They did manage to come back and take a 5 to 3 verdict in the second game by knocking their nemesis, Hank Wyse, out of the box in the big seventh round, during which they scored three runs.

Mort Cooper

Mort Cooper and Claude Passeau will be the starting pitchers tonight. Although they are still rated with the topnotchers of the National League, neither Cooper nor Passeau have been consistent winners this season. Due to the inability of Cooper to retire Enos Slaughter, the Braves lost their last night game to the Cardinals when Joffre Cross stole home on Jim Konstanty in the 10th inning.

Under Billy Southworth the Braves have played great ball this spring. When they've got good pitching, the Braves has been tough to beat. They haven't any power to speak of, but Southworth hasn't missed many tricks when he has had men on bases. And, but for a few "bones" on the part of his hirelings, he probably would have compiled a perfect record up to this stage of the campaign.

Without consulting the records, I'd wager that, to date, the Braves have scored more men from first on two baggers than they ever did in any previous season.

They say that the fans go to ball games to see home runs. Well, unquestionably that is true. But, almost 200,000 of the pay-as-you-go clientele have turned out to see the Braves at home this season. And, those cash customers knew, before they laid their dough on the line, that they weren't going to see many circuit clouts fly off Braves' bats. They were attracted by the heads up type of baseball Billy Southworth has his charges playing.

The New England fans know their baseball. And they have analyzed the Braves. They realize that Southworth is operating without a power hitter. They appreciate the shortage of worthwhile pinch hitters and also the fact that Bama Rowell and Connie Ryan have been in batting slumps. With Rowell and Ryan off stride at the plate, it's a terrific struggle for the rest of the club to carry weak hitters of the Roberge type and of course, the pitchers are dead ducks if they allow more than two or three runs.

But, the fact remains that piloted by Southworth, the Braves have won 15 out of 27 games and are virtually tied with the Cubs, the 1945 National League champions, for third place. Billy the Kid must do it with mirrors.

Weinberg Has Chance For Ring Recognition

By JACK CONWAY

Bill Weinberg, Chelsea heavyweight, will be able to receive boxing recognition which will carry beyond New England when he clashes with Pat Comiskey of New Jersey in a ten-round bout at a Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building one week from tonight. In the opinion of Al Lacy and other good judges of boxing, Weinberg is prepared to step in and give battle with a chance of winning against the best of the second division heavyweights. Since coming out of the Coast Guard, Weinberg has scored several victories against minor opposition. He now feels he is prepared to take on a better grade of ring men.

Billy Weinberg

Comiskey was rated as one of the most promising young heavyweights in the country a few years ago. He received so much national publicity that so much was expected of him by the public before he had acquired the necessary experience. Comiskey was forced to take on seasoned opponents and he ran into fistic grief.

Comiskey is in the midst of a new comeback drive. He won from Earl Louman in three rounds in a bout held here. And he did not hesitate when offered a bout with Weinberg.

It was good matchmaking on the part of Sam Silverman to pit Weinberg against Comiskey. The fans know the big fellows are well matched. It will not be a soft touch for either boxer. Weinberg, who is a good boxer and a fair puncher, was beginning to lose popularity as a result of the type of opponents he was knocking over. The same thing would have happened to Comiskey if he had insisted on meeting the run of the mill heavyweights who frequently get all the fighting they wish in two or three rounds.

The Weinberg-Comisky bout is the best offering of the Callahan A. C. since Tippy Larkin won over Willie Joyce in their sensational battle at the Garden. It is unlikely that the Silverman-made cumbination will require any red ink when the returns are in this p. m.

The winner of next Monday's bout will be in line for attractive heavyweight matches when the Callahan Club moves into Braves Field for its outdoor program.

Future

Bruce Woodcock, dark haired, handsome British heavyweight champion who made such a good showing as he went down to defeat before Tami Mauriello in five rounds in the New York Garden, has a bright fistic future. Woodcock convinced this writer and others who saw him in action, that he is a good boxer, can punch with either hand and that he is dead game. Only inexperience caused Woodcock's defeat. If Woodcock had possessed more ring experience he would have knocked Mauriello out after he stunned him with a rignt hand punch to the jaw in the third round.

Johnny Rogers, Woodcock's American representative, will arrive in Boston this week for a visit with Harry Kelley. Rogers told this writer he opposed matching Woodcock with Mauriello as he felt the British champion needed three or four bouts in America before taking on a top flight heavyweight. A big offer from Mike Jacobs, however, caused the Woodcock management to decide to accept the Maurfello bout.

It was a bold gamble on the part of the British champion. If he had won, he could have written his own ticket for a title bout with the victor of the Louis-Conn bout. Woodcock took a plane back to England Saturday, but he will return to the United States after a London bout with Freddie Mills, victim of Gus Lesnevich's wallop.

If Woodcock can knock out Mills, and he has a good chance of doing so, he will be able to demand attractive matches in the United States.

Matty Norton of Boston, who trained Woodcock for the Mauriello bout, had the British champion in the best possible condition for his big test. Norton will train Woodcock when the latter returns to this country.

LaMotta vs. Reddick

Jake LaMotta, one of the world's ranking middleweights, will return to the boxing wars in Boston on Friday night with Joe Reddick of Paterson, N. J., as an opponent. LaMotta has furnished some of his best bouts in local rings, and he is sure to carry the battle to Reddick from the opening gong.

LaMotta is the only boxer who has been able to give Ray (Sugar) Robinson serious opposition. Robinson was fortunate to gain a split decision over LaMotta when they met in Chicago.

Reddick is an aggressive two-fisted warrior and he has had plenty of ring experience against top opposition. While Reddick is not expected to beat LaMotta (who can?) he should give the New Yorker a hard battle.

Senator Vernon Paces A. L. at .411

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—There's a new name at the top of big league baseball's leading hitters today—that of James Barton "Mickey" Vernon, slugging 411.

Vernon is a 28-year-old, 6-foot-2 southpaw with little to say as he goes about his fielding job at first base for Washington, but his big bat has been saying plenty.

As the Senators beat the White Sox twice Sunday, Vernon smashed out six hits in nine times at bat, including two doubles, two homers and a triple.

He extended a consecutive hitting streak to 17 games during which he has made 31 hits in 78 attempts.

Vernon, a Villanova College product, did not hit in the select .300 circle in three seasons with the Senators before he enlisted in the Navy after the 1943 race.

But while Vernon was in service, word came back from Hawaii, Guam, Saipan and other Pacific points that "he's the best hitter out there . . . They can't get him out."

Vernon returned to the Senators 20 pounds heavier than when he went away, now weighs about 200 pounds.

The Senators have won seven of nine games on their first long road trip, and Vernon's slugging has kept the upward surge alive as the club climbed from deep in the second division to a solid fourth place.

Stripers Refuse to Oblige 1000 Anglers

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Lured by reports of good catches taken from the Cape Cod Canal the middle of last week, hundreds of anglers plied their rods here Saturday and Sunday—but discovered that the stripers had decided not to stay for the week-end! According to reports received last night, scores of fishermen were casting from the banks, elbow-to-elbow in stretches. A conservative estimate placed the number of sportsmen at over 1000, with the largest concentrations at the Bourne Bridge and Sagamore.

A small run started yesterday morning, about 6 o'clock, the fish averaging six pounds each, but most of 'em just weren't hitting . . . Clayton Fuller, Buzzards Bay boat and tackle dealer, saw two stripers boated in Buttermilk Bay, early in the day, while Maurice Faunce and Art McKay, of East Weymouth, hooked a couple in the evening.

Sumner Towne had three of his boats busy during the week-end, returning with a few 10-pounders. Winds and choppy waters didn't help the sport Sunday . . . Ed Fruean, Jr., secretary of the Bass River Rod and Gun Club, tried his luck before breakfast at the South Dennis Bridge, but didn't get a strike. After supper, however, he tried into one at the same spot.

Fred and Bob Grant, of East Braintree, ventured forth at dawn yesterday, and pulled two four and five-pound stripers from the North river, at the railroad bridge, using shiners and seaworms. Several small keepers were caught here.

ANGLING ANGLES: Bill Frelier, Braintree, and Eddie Pinkel, Jamaica Plain, had seven days of glorious fishing at Maine's Moosehead lake, recently. Every day the boys dined on savory squaretails, and they brought home plenty of big salmon, plus Bill's prize—a five-pound togue.

ANGLERS in Quincy Bay continue to land bushels of cod and flounders, with an occasional pollock thrown in to vary their diets . . . Numerous boats set out from George Elliot's livery at Harvey's Wharf, over the week-end . . . Joe DiNapoli's family, Roslindale, are still eating some of that 11-pound cod he hooked there.

Pickerel are biting in Sunset lake and the dam, at Braintree . . . This species is also hitting in North Grafton waters . . . Several white perch have been caught at Stockbridge, tipping the scales at over two pounds. In this district, yellow perch of the humpback variety are also found.

The trout fishing in Massachusetts remains spotty, depending on localities . . . That 28-inch rainbow, taken from the Ipswich river, still is the biggest catch to date, as far as we know . . . Conservation Officer Joe Ebitz, North Adams, says that the plain Coachman Fly is the only lure at which fish in his area will strike!

Billy Conn Fast In 8-Round Work

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. J., May 20 (AP)—Billy Conn showed plenty of zip in an eight-round session with four spar mates yesterday, working two heats each with Jimmy Smith, Frankie Fo-reda, Mickey Belluscio and Mickey McAvot.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., May 20 (AP)—Joe Louis continues to pack them in at his training camp, turning away more than 2000 fans yesterday as he sparred four rounds.

The heavyweight champ, preparing for his title scrap with Billy Conn at the Yankee Stadium June 19, went a round each with Al Boosman and Perk Daniels and two with Jimmy Bell.

Quality Bakers Play Cardinals

Quality Bakers, leading the West Division of the Park League at the start of the third week of the pennant drives, will be at home tonight to the Dorchester Cardinals, in the Cards' first visit to the Noddle Island grounds of the doughboys.

As a last-minute replacement for the 1945 pennant-winning Navy Yard crew, Quality has fielded a youthful, fast club which has made a telling debut, for a first-year team in the after-supper circuit, knocking off some of the so-called "power-clubs," early in the race.

Dick Casey Club, hovering near the cellar of the East Division, a traditionally un-Casey position, has had some lineup changes over the weekend, most notable of which has been the injured Bill Shaulus' being replaced by veteran receiver Red Fleming. Dick has assigned Shanghai Miller, late of Alabama, to this evening's mound assignment against Hal Crosby's McDonough Club, which nearly shut out the Caseys last week at Fens.

The battle for vacating of the cellar will take place at Jamaica Plain, where the two last-place holders, Lanes and St. Thomas' are engaged, and at Cleveland Circle, the Veterans will attempt to retain their newly-found power which pulled them into the winners' circle last week, by assigning ace Ronnie Corbett or Moe Moravec to hurl against Artesani Club from nearby Allston.

Stengel Lifts Club Into Coast League

Pacific Coast League fans looked with interest at Manager Casey Stengel's Oakland Acorns today. The comet-like rise of the club from third to a tie for first during the past week gave the early season race all the fervor of a crucial down-the-stretch finale.

San Francisco and Los Angeles were cutting each other's throats at Wrigley Field in a 4-3 series, the Seals managing to cling to a tie for the league lead by taking the odd game. The Angels slipped from second to the third rung.

Maryland Winds Up Spring Turf Season

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., May 20 (AP)—Maryland's last full week of the spring racing, which begins today, will be climaxed by the 35th running of the $20,000-added Havre de Grace Handicap, with the Calumet champion, Armed, as the outstanding entry.

The $5000-added Eastern Shore Stakes for 2-year-olds will headline the closing day card a week from today.

Red Sox Bank on Age

By HUCK FINNEGAN

DETROIT, May 19—This was an off day for the Red Sox, but not exactly an idle day. At least tongues were not idle. And the tongues were asking: "Will Higgins help us?" Mike Higgins, be it said, was sold to the Sox after Ferriss blanked the Tigers, 4-0, and before Hughson lost to the Tigers, 3-1, in the Sunday doubleheader that attracted the largest crowd in Detroit history — (57,130 paid).

Pinky Higgins

Mike Higgins couldn't make the Detroit ball club. He was supplanted at third base by outfielder Jimmy Outlaw before George Kell came from the A's for Barney McCosky. He was listed as "washed up."

He's no chicken. He'll be 37 years of age next Monday. Can anybody that old help the Sox at third base?

"Not Higgins," said Detroit's H. G. Salsinger, the city's baseball patriarch.

"Where's he going to play?" asked Rip Russell who broke in at third Saturday with a home run and five 'rbi.' He's going to play third base. He's going to take the job at which Andres, Steiner, Culberson, Pellagrini and Russell all had a shot. He'll be at third base Wednesday in Cleveland.

"Not necessarily," said Cronin. "We'll see what kind of shape he's in."

Cronin knows. He saw him at Great Lakes last summer, saw him in Boston last month, saw him here. Cronin likes him.

That isn't hard to understand. Higgins was one guy from the A's who didn't try to give Cronin the leg when he played in Boston (1937-38).

In fact told Joe, "All you need is pitching to win the pennant. You've got Tabor coming up; why not trade me for some pitching?"

Cronin did. He got Eldon Auker and Jake Wade for him. They didn't help.

Cronin always liked Higgins, and Higgins always liked Boston. There was the year '40 in Cleveland where the Tigers clinched the pennant. Higgins called the Boston writers and said: "There's champagne in my room, boys. The Detroit writers will be taken care of. Come on up and have fun."

Higgins is a great fellow. Everybody in the League likes him. He's got guts, too. And he always could hit.

But can he help the Sox? The same question was asked about Rudy York and the Indian has been doing all right. Maybe Higgins will, too. That remains to be seen.

Higgins has slowed down, no question, but he'll always be a threat as long as he can swish the bat, especially at Fenway Park. That's where he did his best hitting, batting in 106 runs in both '37 and '38.

Like York, he's Cronin's type of ball player. He hits that long ball, and he'll never find a better place to hit than Fenway Park. He won't be much faster on the base paths than York, but he'll know the answers around third base and won't make mental mistakes.

The younger Sox aren't openly fond of the deal. "Is Detroit our farm club?" they ask.

They want a young ball club, a running ball club. They don't want anybody cluttering up the base paths ahead of them.

But Cronin knows it's this year or never, and he figures Higgins, like York, will go all out for that World Series dough and give him the one big year he wants. Here's hoping they both make it.

"Farm system, my eye," said the younger Sox who were left in the lurch by the Higgins pronunciamento. "Flair and Campbell have been around for 10 years and they buy Foxx and then York. Andres and Pellagrini have been around for eight, and they buy Higgins. Pesky is the only farm product on the ball club." . . . The Sox couldn't get Stephens, Keltner, Johnson or Stirnweiss. They wanted an established infielder at third. They've got one in Higgins. Only question is: "Has he gone over the hill?" Detroit thinks so.

Ferriss . . . The Shaw, Miss., lad. didn't issue a base on balls as he blanked the Tigers 4-0 in Sunday's opener. That's two shutouts in a row he's pitched, and does Coogie McFarland still claim he can't win in postwar baseball? You've got to like Ferriss, winning or losing. He tries, he fights. For instance, Mullin led off the fifth with a triple. The throw-in went past third toward the Tigers' dugout. Ferriss was backing up, held Mullin at third, kept him there while he retired the next three men in order, fanning two. If Mickey Harris had backed up Wagner like that in St. Louis, Dom DiMaggio wouldn't have been charged with an error after making a fine throw to the plate.

Hughson . . . He's still "snakebit" as he terms it, but he's fallen into his 1943 habit of throwing the home run ball. Murrell Jones beat him in Chicago with a two-run homer, Greenberg, Outlaw and Wakefield homered off him Sunday for the Tigers' three runs. The 22-game winner of '42 now has lost four of the seven games the Sox have dropped. He lost the last one before the 15 straight; he lost the one in New York that ended the streak. Outside of Dobson, he's the only Sox pitcher who has lost a game in three weeks.

Hoping to change his luck, Hughson flew from St. Louis to Detroit with the club. Now he insists he'll travel from city to city on horseback . . . Charlie Wagner is the "forgotten man" on the Sox, but Bill Butland will be relieving any with three battle stars is the same day now. The artilleryman who came out of the Luzon campaign lad who won seven in a row for the Sox in '42 . . . The plane ride from St. Louis was so enjoyable most of the Sox who demurred after the stormy Chicago-St. Louis flight are now clamoring for plane reservations home next Thursday . . . Doerr was hitless in 16 trips before he singled in the first game. He was under .200 at the time. and Higgins may be the Sox No. 4 hitter. Or perhaps No. 3, with Williams hitting 4.

Heavy Entries for State Outdoor Meet

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Inflation has hit the schoolboy ranks!

Never, in the history of the Outdoor State Meet, to be held at Dickinson Stadium, Newton, Saturday afternoon, have so many high school teams and so many individual entries been filed for this grand climax to the track and field campaign.

Actually, the tremendous influx of entries has Director Tom Hines' offices at Brookline High School in a merry state preparing for the affair. Twenty-one schools have entered the Class A competition, with 250 boys to battle it out for the 10 crowns. Class B has 32 schools sending over 321—entries (they harn't all been counted) so that possibly there will be over 600—individuals when the tally is complete.

A portion of this record may be accountable in the fact that the outlaw schools will be back in the competition (now that they're back in the good graces of the Headmasters' Ass'n) and the private schools of Rivers Country Day and Roxbury Latin are now qualified. Then, too, there's a revival of track throughout the state—such that finds schools as Brockton, Cohasset, Methuen and Gloucester returning to the competition.

Class A lists Boston Tech, Lynn Classical, Rindge Tech, Everett, Lawrence, Lynn English, Rivers, Boston Commerce, Lowell, Medford, Newton, Malden, Roxbury Memorial, Brookline, Roxbury Latin, Boston English, Dorchester, Brockton, Somerville and Boston Trade.

Class B registers Framingham, Mansfield, Norwood, Jamaica Plain, North Quincy, Winchester, Methuen, Woburn, Cambridge Latin, East Boston, Quincy, Waltham, Milton, Lexington, Melrose, Dedham, Belmont, Watertown, Winthrop, Needham, Weymouth, Wellesley, Brandeis Vocational, Punchard, New Bedford, Gloucester, Cohasset, Concord, Arlington and the four Worcester schools—Classical, Commerce, North and South.

Just imagine what will happen next year when the Catholic schools will be in the fold! Undoubtedly, they'll have to arrange for trials in the morning with finals listed for the afternoon.

This season, it was impossible to shift the Catholic Meet from St. John's of Danvers as they had been set early in the year. As a result, St. John's, Central Catholic and St. Mary's of Waltham—the three leaders in the Catholic group—will return to Danvers Saturday, passing up the State affair until next spring when there'll be no conflict in the two dates.

Meanwhile, Boston schoolboys were to start the ball rolling on the cinders today in opening the first of two days of competition in the outdoor Reggies at Boston College.

Hub Twi League Has Three Games

Three games, including an important meeting between the undefeated Colored Giants and Roxbury Cassidy Post, A. L. to be played at Marcella st. grounds, feature the opening of the third week of the Hub City Twi League tonight.

The Giants, sharing the lead with St. Lazarus, will be out to take over the top rung from the idle Saints against the World War II vets who have won four and dropped two.

Armstrongs, winning their first game, 17 to 0 from Brighton Catholic last week after losing their first four starts, will attempt to emerge from a three-way cellar tie against Mission Hill Post, A. L. at Fens Stadium. The other tilt listed for after-supper fans tonight has the Brighton Catholic Inst. squaring off with the Blue Sox at McKenney Field, Brighton. Both nines share fourth place.

Yanks Get Curb On Mex League

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—New York Supreme Court Justice Julius Miller today granted the Yankees a temporary injunction restraining the Mexican League from inducing players to repudiate their contracts and said the Mexicans offered "no real proof that organized baseball is an illegal monopoly."

The New York State Supreme Court previously had granted the club a stay and Justice Miller set May 28 as the date for a hearing on the club's plea the injunction be made permanent.

Speedy Eagles Battle Friars

The Boston College Eagles, a contender for the New England Intercollegiate baseball crown, will play host to the Providence Friars on Wednesday at Alumni Field in the second of a two game series.

In their last meeting which was May 8, the locals had handed their Rhode Island visitors a three to nothing whitewash behind the four hit pitching of freshman Gerry Lovinson.

Bob Blakeney is slated to draw the mound assignment this time and is favored to extend the B. C. win streak to eight straight. Since they lost their first game of the season to Northeastern, the Eagles have swept through seven games without a loss. Pitchers Bob Quirk, Blakeney, Lovinson and Tom McManus have combined to allow the opposition but 31 hits in the seven contests, while racking up a pair of shutouts. Besides blanking Providence, B. C. slammed Colby 10 to 0.

A win by the locals will clinch their hold on first place in the N. E. standings and they are top heavy favorites to clout their "cousins" from the Rhode Island Jesuit college. However should they be upset, BC will be supplanted by Yale, who rate just below BC in the standings. Had Saturday's game with the Elis not been canceled due to the threatened rail strike, the game would have definitely decided the just leader in this first post war year.

With Blakeney on the hill, Fred Maguire will present a lineup composed of all veterans. Every man on the starting team is a former member of the armed forces. Twenty-one of the 24-man squad are vets of World War II, the three non vets being Quirk, Lovinson and utility infielder Ed Ryan.

NIEMIEC JOINS R. I. CLUB

PROVIDENCE, May 20 (AP)—George Bishop, business manager of the Providence-Cranston Chiefs, said today Al Niemiec, former Holy Cross star had signed a contract to play second base. In 1942, before entering the Army Niemiec was voted the outstanding second baseman in the Pacific Coast League.
